WOMEN TAKE PART IN BATTLE

Further Disturbances in and Around Ancona, Italy—Many Killed

Barracks Attacked at Pisa—Plot to Overturn Social Order Throughout Country

ROME, June 27.—Further disturbances in and around Ancona are reported in despatches from that city today. Anarchists are concentrating around the labor bureau in Ancona and despatches indicate they have a machine gun. Several have been killed in encounters with policemen. An attack was made upon the carabinieri barracks and a number of hand grenades were thrown, but the anarchists were unable to enter. Reinforcements rushed to the scene were met with shots from neighboring houses and it is said women participated in the fighting.

Two trains were attacked near Bergaccio. On one train, eight passengers were wounded and five of them subsequently died. The other train was carrying police, of whom four were wounded and one killed. A destroyer has arrived at Ancona with reinforcements for the troops there.

Barracks Attacked
PISA, Italy, June 28.—Barracks were attacked here yesterday, but the assailants were repulsed. The rioters built barricades in the streets and pillaged liquor and clothing stores until order was restored by reinforcements to the garrison. Two of the rioters were killed and many have been arrested. There were a number of casualties among the police and soldiers.

CHARTER COMMISSION

Mayor Thompson Will Announce Tomorrow Personnel of New Committee

The names of the 15 men who are to comprise the commission provided for in a legislative resolve to study Lowell's charter situation and to make recommendations to the legislature next January will be made public tomorrow. Mayor Perry D. Thompson announced today. The mayor has been working on the commission for well over a month and has only until July 1 to complete his selections. Two members whom the mayor has chosen have not yet definitely accepted the positions but are expected to do so by tomorrow.

ORDER YOUR COAL EARLY

This is Fuel Administrator Storrow's Advice to the Manufacturers.

Officials of the Lowell chamber of commerce are trying to urge upon users of bituminous coal the importance of ordering and ordering at once, practically without regard to the price charged, supplies of water-borne coal.

Letters have been received at the local chamber from Fuel Administrator Storrow calling attention to the importance of manufacturers getting all of the coal into their bins that they possibly can to avoid a complete tie-up of industry next winter when Continued to Page 5

OPPOSED TO STREET PLAYGROUND PLAN

Mayor Perry D. Thompson has received a petition from residents of West Fifth street protesting against the proposed setting aside of a portion of the street during certain hours of the day as a playground, in accordance with a suggestion of the playgrounds and recreation committee of the chamber of commerce.

The petition is signed by 60 residents of the street and they base their opposition on the fact that at least 10 men living in the street are employed at night and would be disturbed during the day if the street were turned into a playground. The mayor will bring the matter to the attention of the municipal council at its meeting tomorrow.

2000 Prisoners of War Drowned When Bolshevik Steamer Was Sunk

LONDON, June 28.—Two thousand British, Austrian, German and Finnish prisoners of war were drowned when a Bolshevik steamer was sunk recently in the Neva river, according to a Helsingfors despatch to the Central News. A Reuters report from Stockholm would seem to confirm this dispatch, saying that a ship was sunk on the 6th of June with 2000 repatriated prisoners on board. It, however, does not mention any loss of life.

Dryer in Rubber Plant at Pottstown, Pa., Exploded—Third Man Fatally Injured

POTTSTOWN, Pa., June 28.—William C. Walsh, 33 years old, president and general manager of the Vulcaweld Tire and Rubber company and James A. Maney, 32, general superintendent, were killed early today by the explosion of a dryer.

Frank Walsh, the president's brother, lost an arm and suffered other injuries which may prove fatal. Fumes had been troubling workmen for some days and the three men went to the factory ahead of the day force to work on machinery designed to remove the fumes.

When the door of an overheated dryer was opened flames shot forth and ignited gases, causing the explosion. Walsh was formerly connected with the National Rubber company. He came here from Chicopee Falls, Mass., to establish a new business. The factory had just been completed.

Maney was a veteran of the British army, having served five years overseas.

Convention to Adjourn After Keynote Speech and Naming of Committees

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Assuming at noon today for their first session, delegates to the democratic national convention heard a keynote speech by National Chairman Cummings and perfected preliminary clearing the way for the real work of finding a presidential candidate.

Twelve o'clock noon was fixed for the opening, but hours before that time ticket-holders gathered in the spacious building which seats more than 12,000 persons. Those who did not hold tickets were barred from approaching the main entrance by forces hidden behind a screen of California evergreens.

News of the Churches

The usual services were carried out in the various local Catholic churches yesterday. Next Friday, the first Friday of the month, will be observed with special masses in the morning and holy hour services in the evening. Confessions will be heard Thursday afternoon and evening.

A collection for the Indian and negro missions was taken up at all the masses yesterday. Many of the churches will begin their summer schedule of Sunday services next week, that is, having the parish mass, a low mass instead of high mass as has been the custom through the winter and spring months.

St. Peter's
At the 5:30 o'clock mass at St. Peter's church yesterday members of the Children of Mary sodality received communion in a body. Rev. Francis L. Shea was the celebrant and Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan assisted in giving communion. Rev. Peter T. Linahan sang the late mass and Rev. Fr. Heffernan was the preacher. Masses on Friday will be at 5 and 7 o'clock.

St. Patrick's
A large number of the faithful received communion at the 7 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church yesterday, celebrated by the pastor, Monsignor O'Brien. At the 11 o'clock mass the graduates of the parish school were awarded diplomas. Masses on Friday will be at the usual first Friday hours and confessions will be heard Thursday afternoon and evening.

Sacred Heart
Members of the Children of Mary sodality received communion in a body at the early mass at the Sacred Heart church yesterday. Rev. William Mahan, O. M. L., was the celebrant and Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. L., the pastor, assisted in giving communion. Rev. Thomas J. Coffey, O. M. L., of Boston, sang the high mass and Rev. Fr. Mahan, O. M. L., preached the sermon. Masses on Friday will be at 5, 6, 7 and 8 o'clock.

St. Michael's
Rev. Thomas J. Heagney sang the high mass at St. Michael's church yesterday and Rev. James P. Lynch delivered the sermon. Masses on Friday will be at 5:15 and 7 o'clock and evening devotions will be at 7:30.

Immaculate Conception
The usual order of services was carried out at the Immaculate Conception church with large numbers of the faithful receiving communion at the early masses. The annual military mass of the O. M. L. Cadets was celebrated at 9 o'clock. First Friday services will be held at the usual hours.

St. Margaret's
Rev. Stephen G. Murray celebrated the early masses at St. Margaret's church yesterday. Masses on Friday will be at 5:30 and 7:30.

St. Columba's
Rev. James F. Somers celebrated the high mass at St. Columba's church yesterday and Rev. Patrick J. Hally, the pastor, celebrated the early masses. Sunday school commencement exercises were held after the late mass. Masses on Friday will be at 5 and 7 o'clock.

AMERICAN COLLEGE OF SURGEONS

The Massachusetts representative of the American College of Surgeons met in Boston yesterday to consider plans for the organization of a state clinical meeting to be held in Massachusetts some time during the current year.

The following executive committee was elected to have charge of the forthcoming meetings:

Chairman, Frederick J. Cotton, Boston; secretary, Charles F. Palmer, Boston; counselors, R. H. Seelye, Springfield; E. L. Hunt, Worcester; S. W. Goddard, Brockton.

This meeting contemplates the holding of clinics in the local hospitals of the city in which the meeting is to be held, afternoon meetings for the fully conducted by speakers of note, and evening sessions where papers relating to the science of surgery will be read and discussed. This will bring a new type of medical meeting to the state—one in which the public will learn how their right to receive expert surgical care is protected.

The American college of surgeons is an organization which contains on its fellowship roll the names of over 4000 surgeons in the United States and Canada, founded to give the highest type of surgery to every man, woman and child in need of it. The college has fostered the standardization of hospitals and maintains a staff of representatives in the field, visiting hospitals in all parts of the United States and Canada.

Following are the state representatives of the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons:

Charles L. Souder, Boston; Robert F. Hovey, Springfield; Walter Clark Seelye, Worcester; George E. May, Newton Centre; J. Emmons Briggs, Boston; Lincoln Davis, Boston; Charles P. Painter, Boston; Charles A. Porter, Boston; Samuel W. Goddard, Brockton; Harris P. Mosher, Boston; Martin M. Brown, North Adams; Homer Gagne, Worcester; G. Forrest Martin, Lowell; Henry O. Marcy, Jr., Newton; Fredrick J. Cotton, Boston; Fred Bates Lund, Boston; and Augustus W. Buell, Fall River.

DIPLOMAS FOR GREEK SCHOOL GRADUATES

Eighteen graduates of the local Greek parochial school received their diplomas at the commencement exercises which were held in Associate hall yesterday afternoon. The exercises were attended by a large number of relatives and friends of the pupils who, at the close of the program, warmly congratulated the graduates and the teachers for the success achieved during the year.

The speaker at the exercises was the principal of the school, Mrs. Ageliki Panagoulou, who in the course of her remarks, said it was gratifying to the community to be able to send out to the high school a class of 18 pupils, and she said she hoped that number would be doubled before many years.

Present at the exercises were Christos Zlogos and Demetrios S. Athanasoulas, president and secretary of the community; Harry Houlis, chairman of the school board, and the other officers of the community as well as the teachers of the school, including Theodosios Kanavos, Photios Kyriakis, Miss Bridget O'Connell and Miss Florence L. Shanahan.

MATRIMONIAL

Woodlee—Lougee

Mr. Arthur Frederick Woodlee, a member of the Sun staff and formerly lieutenant instructor of gunnery in the United States air service, and Miss Lillian Lougee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lougee, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in South Chelmsford Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. G. P. Camp, pastor of the North Tewksbury Baptist church, performed the ceremony. The wide acquaintance enjoyed by the principals made the affair of more than ordinary interest and a large number of friends were present at both the ceremony and reception which followed. The double ring service was used. The bride presented a most attractive appearance in a dress of white satin, trimmed with Chantilly lace. She wore a white veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bride roses and a shower of sweet peas. Miss Leona L. Lougee, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore orchid chiffon with filet and Venice lace and carried Ophelia roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Barbara E. Martin, who wore pink charmeuse with shadow lace and carried Killarney roses, and Miss Marion Lougee, a sister of the bride, who wore blue satin and Chantilly lace and carried Ward roses. Miss Dorothy Coburn, a niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. Miss Coburn presented a pretty appearance in pink organdy and carried pink rose buds. The best man was Lieut. Frank O. Stephens of the 36th Infantry, stationed at Camp Devens. Mr. Richard Brabrook Walsh and Mr. Everett Lougee, a brother of the bride, were the ushers. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was beautifully decorated with laurel and evergreen. Mrs. Frank Thompson of Worcester played the wedding music and there was orchestral music during the reception. In the receiving line besides the bride and bridegroom were Mr. and Mrs. Lougee and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woodlee, parents of the bridegroom. The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. They left during the evening for a wedding trip of about two weeks. After September 1 they will be at home at 593 Westford street.

Reid—Allen

Mr. Warren Thomas Reid and Miss

Agnes Barbour Allan were married Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Allan, 21 Talbot avenue, North Billerica, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Edward Baptist church. The best man was William R. Peplin, while the bridesmaid was Miss Jane Allan, a sister of the bride. The couple will make their home in Lowell.

England—Chalmers

The marriage of Mr. Thomas G. England and Miss Elizabeth Chalmers took place Saturday afternoon, the ceremony being performed by Rev. B. A. Willmott, former pastor of the First Congregational church. Miss M. Alice Chalmers acted as bridesmaid, while the best man was Rev. B. A. England of Malden, a brother of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. England will make their home at 232 Parker Street.

Peters—Palmer

At 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of the mother of the bride, Mrs. C. S. Palmer, Middlesex street, North Chelmsford, Mr. Joseph Peters and Miss Lucie B. Palmer were united in marriage, the officiating clergyman being Rev. E. Ambrose Jenkins, pastor of the Congregational church. Mr. Ray Palmer, a brother of the bride, acted as best man, while the bridesmaid was Miss Alice Kershaw of this city. The couple will make their home in North Chelmsford.

Kilberd—McGough

Mr. James Kilberd of North Chelmsford and Miss Majorie Ida McGough of Concord, Mass., were married Saturday evening at the home of the groom, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Edward C. Downey, pastor of the Grace Universalist church of this city. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Arne R. Olsen. After their return from their honeymoon trip the couple will make their home in North Chelmsford.

Kelly—Walsh

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday morning, June 23, at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel church, New York city, when Miss Ann Walsh of that city became the bride of Mr. John A. Kelly of 68 Second avenue, this city, at a nuptial mass. The pastor, Rev. Fr. Gibney, officiated. The church was filled with relatives and friends of the couple. The bride, who was given away by her mother, wore white tulle and picture hat trimmed with lilies-of-the-valley and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses with lilies-of-the-valley. She was attended by Miss Lillian Reilly of New York city, who was attired in orchid georgette with picture hat to match and carried tea roses. The best man was Mr. James O'Brien of New York city. Following the mass, at which the double ring ceremony was used, breakfast was served and a reception held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Walsh, Flushing avenue, Long Island. Among the guests were Mrs. J. Cummings of 63 Second avenue, this city, an aunt of the bridegroom, and others from Buffalo, New Jersey, Philadelphia, Long Island and New York city. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Joseph Breen, Mrs. Robert Walsh and Mrs. George Newell, all of this city.

Plouffe—Fisette

At 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Camille Plouffe and Miss Alexina Fisette were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed at St. Joseph's rectory by Rev. Augustin Gratton, O.M.I. The bride wore white crepe georgette trimmed with pearls, silk veil caught up with chiffon and carried bride roses. The best man was Mr. Alfred Fisette, a brother of the bride, while the bridesmaid was a sister of the groom, Miss Lucie Plouffe. The bridesmaid was attired in pink crepe de chine and carried pink roses. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Plouffe, 138 Aiken street and this evening the couple will be entertained at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Fisette, 75 Woodcock st.

Jacob—Theriot

Mr. Hervé Jacob and Miss Octavie Theriot were married this morning at a nuptial mass celebrated at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's rectory, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Aurelien Merill, O.M.I. The bride wore georgette crepe trimmed with pearls, veil caught up with lilies of the valley and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and bride roses. The witnesses were Messrs. Amedee Jacob and Louis Mainville, father and uncle of the groom, respectively. At the close of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mrs. A. Dionne, 53 Race street and tonight the couple will leave on a two weeks' honeymoon trip to Wolfstown and Three Rivers, Que., and upon their return they will make their home at 53 Race street.

Charette—Lachapelle

The marriage of Mr. Albert Charette of Fitchburg and Miss Alphonsine Lachapelle of this city took place this morning at St. Joseph's church, the ceremony being performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at 7 o'clock by Rev. Armand Baron, O.M.I. During the mass appropriate hymns were sung by the Notre Dame de Lourdes sodality choir of which the bride was a member, Miss Lena B. Camire presiding at the organ. The bride was attired in georgette crepe with veil caught up with lilies of the valley and she carried bride roses. She was given away by her father, Mr. Francis Lachapelle, while the groom's witness was his brother-in-law, Mr. C. Saulniers of Lynn. At the close of the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, 516 Moody street and later in the forenoon the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to Montreal and St. Francois du Lac, Que., and upon their return in two weeks they will make their home in Fitchburg.

A 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent

They Have Found the Way to Beautiful Teeth

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Dental science has found a way to combat film on teeth. It has been tested for years by able authorities in clinical and laboratory tests. Now leading dentists everywhere advise its daily use.

The method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. This week we offer a 10-Day Tube to every home in this city, and we urge every home to get it. Let it prove itself.

Film is What Discolors

You can feel on your teeth a slimy film. It is ever-present, ever-forming. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

The tooth brush doesn't end it. The ordinary dentifrice cannot dissolve it. So it accumulates and may do a ceaseless damage.

Most tooth troubles are now traced to that film. And now it is known why brushed teeth still discolor and decay. The reason lies in that clinging film which the old cleaning methods omit.

Cause of Decay

That film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus the film is the teeth's chief enemy.

It Can Be Ended

Dental science has for years sought a way to end that film, and the way has now been found.

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

The way seems simple, but it is not. Pepsin must be activated. The usual method is an acid harmful to the teeth, so pepsin long seemed impossible.

What has been found is a harmless activating method. Now pepsin can be applied twice daily and left between the teeth. And millions of teeth are now being cleaned as they never were before.

Watch the Effects

We ask you to watch the effects. Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Compare this method with the old. Read the facts about it. Then decide for yourself what is best.

Tartar and Stain

are based on film. This 10-Day Test will show you that they are avoidable. And so is tooth decay.

Look in Ten Days

See how white the teeth are—how they glisten. You can see that the film is gone. You will know that teeth can be kept forever whiter and cleaner and safer.

WILL PREVENT REVIVAL OF GERMAN MILITARISM

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Official advices received here state that the allied military control commission with Marshal Foch as its supreme directing head ex-officio, constitutes now the keynote of allied relations with Germany. It is declared that so long as the commission continues to function, revival of German militarism is impossible.

According to these advices, the military control commission exceeds in importance even the reparations commission since former President Poincaré resigned from the reparations body because the allies had decided to limit its authority and since the naval and air commissions have been relegated to positions of secondary importance.

Presided over by General Nollet of the French army with headquarters in Berlin and reporting to Marshal Foch, the commission, in addition to its supervision of German disarmament, has taken an active interest in the political-military developments in Germany. Reports of the recrudescence of Prussian militarism in East Prussia and Pomerania first emanated from reports of the commission to the supreme council.

A sub-committee of the commission was sent into the Ruhr district for investigation under command of the French major, Graff, and it was the report of this mission to official advices, which formed the basis for French contentions at San Remo of German duplicity.

The work of the commission is divided into two general subjects: effectives and armaments. The sub-committee devoted to the subject of effectives is concerned with the size and organization of the German army while the sub-committee on armaments is concerned chiefly with maintaining a proper reduction of stocks of guns and ammunition in Germany.

No place in Germany is exempt from investigation by representatives of these committees as authority of the supreme council in the past has been invoked several times to obtain execution of the commission's demands.

The two sub-committees, in an effort to maintain strict police over potential German militarism, have organized numerous agents into district sub-committees throughout Germany. Such district committees on effectives are presided over by French officers in Pomerania and Schleswig, East Prussia, Bavaria, and Silesia; by British in Berlin and Saxony; by an Italian in Baden and Württemberg; and a Belgian in Westphalia and Hanover. Similarly, sub-committees on armaments have as their heads, French officers in Pomerania, and Schleswig, Frankfurt, Hanover, Cologne, and Silesia; Italian, in Berlin and Bavaria; and Belgian in Baden and Württemberg.

The work of these committees consists chiefly in visiting garrisons, supply depots, military schools, and training camps, in sending out agents to make inquiries and incidentally, in keeping in touch with the political-military tide of affairs.

ANNUAL MILITARY MASS FOR O. M. I. CADETS

A congregation in which every parish of the city and many outside the city were represented attended the annual military mass of the O. M. I. Cadets held yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at the Immaculate Conception church and, as usual, the occasion proved one of the most impressive in the year's calendar of local Catholic affairs.

The office was brilliantly illuminated and the patriotic theme everywhere predominated the decorations from the red, white and blue bunting and silk American flags to the floral adornments that reached a climax in a large bouquet of the national colors centered on the altar.

Members of the cadets, led by the O. M. I. Cadet life and drum corps in charge of Robert Leith and Joseph Wedge, together with a large number of service men, former members of the organization, left the armory in East Merrimack street shortly before 9 o'clock and marched to the church where they occupied reserved seats in the centre aisle. As the soldiers entered the church the organ played "Onward Christian Soldiers" and cornet accompanists added materially to the military aspect of the occasion.

Rev. William W. Noonan, O. M. I., recently ordained to the priesthood and who is a former member of the cadets, celebrated the mass and also preached the sermon. He urged his listeners to remember always the principles taught them as members of the cadets under the direction of their spiritual leader, Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O. M. I. If they maintained their true love for God they could not help being good cadets and good citizens, he said.

During the mass there was assembly singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Our Lady of Victory," with Patrick Sullivan and Thomas McKenna sustaining the solos in the latter number. "Lead Kindly Light" was sung by a sextet composed of Frank O'Brien, John O'Brien, Charles McGovern, Thomas McKenna, Patrick

Sullivan and Fred Farrell. Mrs. Hugh Walker was the organist. In accordance with traditional custom, the cadets received communion at the mass, Rev. Fr. Noonan, O. M. I., being assisted by Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O. M. I., and Rev. James B. McCaylin, O. M. I., in giving communion. Capt. John V. Mannagan and Capt. William Doolley were the altar boys. As the cadets marched from the church the organist played "America United," a composition by Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I. Later in the forenoon a breakfast was served in the armory by Caterer Lydon.

Present at the mass were all the former colonels of the organization, including Messrs. Harrington, Hagerty, Conroy, Boyd and Hall, Bernard P. McArdie, former drill instructor, was also present.

Rev. Fr. Sullivan O. M. I., was assisted in carrying out the arrangements by Col. Alfred Burns and Military Instructor Francis Gargan.

PASTOR CONDEMNS G. O. P. PLATFORM

The republican platform was condemned as being destructive and not constructive by Rev. Carl P. Meister in a sermon last evening at the Centralville M. E. church. The speaker offered particular objection to the plank dealing with prohibition, women's suffrage and labor matters. He said that the platform was framed with the sole purpose of helping to defeat the opposition.

Mr. Meister said that he is personally acquainted with Senator Harding, having been born in Marion, Ohio, the senator's home town, and that he had spent his boyhood days in Caledonia when the senator was a resident there. The speaker compared Mr. Harding to McKinley and said that he thought he was the strongest man that the republicans could have selected and that if elected he would prove fully capable of managing the affairs of the country. He said that he would be able to carry congress with him in legislative matters because of his qualities of personal likableness. He said that the senator had shown exceptional qualities for leadership even in his youth.

DIPLOMAS ARE AWARDED

Annual Award of Diplomas to Graduates of St. Patrick's Parochial School

The usual impressive services marked the annual award of diplomas to graduates of the commercial department and grammar grades of St. Patrick's parochial school at the high mass at St. Patrick's church yesterday morning. A congregation that filled the church witnessed the ceremony.

Rev. Joseph A. Curtin celebrated the mass and the diplomas were presented by the pastor, Right Rev. William O'Brien, P. R. Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., preached the sermon.

The graduates were seated in the centre aisle and just before the sermon marched to the altar where the pastor presented them their diplomas and certificates of advancement. He was assisted by Rev. Brother Nilus, C. F. X., superior of the school.

Rev. Dr. Supple preached a strong sermon from the text found in Matthew: "Go Teach All Nations." This, the preacher said, was the commission given the church to teach. How well she fulfilled that mission in ages past was reviewed, showing that the church stood for the promotion of learning, was the patroness of art and science, and particularly devoted her energies through her missionaries, her saints and her scholars to the dissemination of the great truths of salvation. The things that concern the soul, the spiritual life and the service of God, are foremost in the church's zeal as a teacher of man and nations, he said. With secular education she links religious so that the moral nature of her children may be developed as well as the intellectual qualities. The works of the church in the care and instruction of her followers is especially seen in her devotion to little children. As Christ loved little children, so the church loves the mantle of her care and grace over them, first at the baptismal font and follows them with her guidance and administrations until they are laid away in the grave consecrated by her power.

The church teaches the children respect for authority, Dr. Supple continued, reverence for the sacred things of God, honesty, integrity and purity; in fact, the strict compliance with the commands of God, and urges an exemplification of all Christian virtues in their lives after they have passed out into the bustling world. It was his wish and prayer that these graduates, leaving St. Patrick's school, should ever remember the eternal truths impressed upon their minds by the zealous teachers of the Xavierian brotherhood and by the Sisters of Notre Dame. He hoped that their lives might be such as to bring glory to God and reflect credit upon themselves and their devoted teachers.

WOMEN AT CONVENTION

Oklahoma Woman, Mother of Six Among Delegates—
Husband G. O. P. Delegate

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Mrs. William H. England, of Oklahoma, Vassar graduate and mother of six children, is one of more than 300 women who are delegates to the democratic national convention which opens here June 28. Her husband was a delegate to the republican national convention at Chicago this month.

Among the other Oklahoma delegates are two women who trace their ancestry to Indian chieftains. They are Mrs. Richard L. Fife, wife of a physician, formerly of Georgia and grandchild of Sequoyah, inventor of the Cherokee alphabet; and Mrs. Eugene B. Lawson, wife of an attorney and oil man and daughter of the Rev. Charles Johnsey, late chief of the Delawareans. Mrs. Fife was first chairman of the women's democratic club of Oklahoma; Mrs. Lawson was formerly president of the Oklahoma Federation of Women's Clubs and both were prominent in war work.

Miss Laura Clay, delegate-at-large from Kentucky, was one of the organizers of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association in 1855 and is reputed to be a "practical farmer."

Miss Elizabeth Marbury, delegate-at-large from New York, who was decorated by the United States, France, Belgium and Italy for war work, is first vice-president of the League of Catholic Women. She came to the convention with Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby, "mother of New York women democrats." In a special train from New York that carried 54 women delegates and alternates.

Texas sent a nationally known figure in Mrs. Percy Pennybacker, club leader. One of the best known of California's eight delegates is Miss Mary E. Foy, who has been identified with many phases of civic betterment work. Mrs. John W. Troy, of Alaska, was the first woman delegate to arrive here.

Seventeen women, headed by Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, have been appointed by Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the democratic national committee, as members of the executive committee of 31.

Mrs. George Bass, first chairman of the Women's Bureau of the Democratic National Committee, and Mrs. Mary Holland Kinkaid, assistant director of publicity, in charge of women's activities, are among the leaders here. Mrs. Bass is a Chicago civic worker and had charge of the 1916 democratic presidential campaign in 12 western equal suffrage states, 10 of which cast their electoral vote for Wilson.

VIOLIN RECITAL BY WOESSNER'S PUPILS

The pupils of Mr. Woessner gave an interesting program of violin solos and ensemble numbers to a large audience in Colonial hall on Sunday afternoon.

The playing of the Andante from Concerto No. 2, by De Beriot, by Mr. Paterson, was greatly enjoyed, and also the concerto by Ancey, played by Sam Yaler. Margaret Goggin and Joseph Lawrence deserve special mention for the playing of Concerto No. 1.

De Beriot, and Scene De Ballet, De Beriot, respectively. Both solos are of considerable length and were played from memory as also were all the other solos.

The Reverie and Resignation, by Faccorier, played by the sextet, made an instant appeal to the audience as pieces played by such a combination of instruments are very seldom heard. In the orchestra numbers the pupils showed good training on intonation and in following the conductor. Mr. Woessner had the assistance of Miss Frances Goggin, pianist; Mr. John Mackel, trumpeter; Mr. Frank Schuman, trombonist, and Mr. Charles Seales, bass, in the orchestra and ensemble numbers.

terday in the absence of the regular pastor. In the audience at both services were a number of the former parishioners of Kirk Street church.

The subject of the morning sermon was "A Man Greatly Beloved," the text being from Daniel X-11. The character of the prophet was analyzed and he was praised for his loyalty to home training and courage in sticking by his convictions. The speaker said that people today were too much concerned about what other people would think of them and not about what God would think of them.

"A Providential Interruption" was the subject of the evening address. The story of the woman who touched the hem of Jesus' garments and was healed of her infirmities was taken up by the speaker as a starting point for his discourse. He spoke especially of the unexpected happenings of life that change its course and may be blessings in disguise.

H. M. DEMERS
6-12 LILLEY AVENUE

CELEBRATED HIS FIRST MASS YESTERDAY

Rev. Leandre Lirette, S.M.M., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lirette of 617 Merrimack street, this city, who was ordained to the priesthood May 29 at the Ottawa cathedral, celebrated his first mass at St. Jean Baptiste church yesterday at 11 o'clock. He was assisted by his cousin, Rev. Bonome Molsan of Framingham as deacon and Rev. Rosario Lambert, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. During the mass appropriate music was rendered by an augmented choir under the direction of L. N. Gullbault, who also presided at the organ. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Antoine A. Amyot, O.M.I., an old friend of the family.

At the close of the mass the young clergyman was entertained at dinner at the home of his parents and present at the festivities were about 100 guests among whom were Rev. Fr. Amyot, O.M.I., Rev. Fr. Molsan and the following from out of town: Rev. Bro. Pierre Antoine of the Marist order of St. Pierre Joly, Manitoba; Rev. Sister Elizabeth, Rev. Sister St. Francis and Rev. Sister St. Charles, all of the Sisters of St. Joseph and all located at Eureka, Cal. He was born in this city 23 years ago and received his early education at St. Joseph's college. He completed his classical studies at the seminary of Papineauville, Que., and his theological studies at the scholastic of Bastille Centre, near Ottawa.

The young clergyman celebrated the 7 o'clock mass at St. Jean Baptiste church this morning and this noon he was entertained at luncheon at the home of a brother, Theophile Lirette in Perkins street. He will remain in Lowell about six weeks after which he will return to Ottawa, whence he will be assigned to missionary work.

Continued

Fuel deliveries will be slow and in small quantities. Mr. Storow points out that the railroads cannot bring into New England anything like the quantities of coal that are required and that, in fact, they are finding it difficult to move enough coal to meet their own requirements. None of the New England roads has more than a limited supply on hand.

Disregard Price
Mr. Storow advises prospective purchasers to buy now even if they are obliged to pay several dollars more per ton for their coal in order to secure quick delivery by water.

Some local users of coal are inquiring where the extra expense of several dollars a ton for coal is to go. They say that it has been commonly supposed that water borne coal would be cheaper than fuel brought in by the railroads as water transportation has been considered much cheaper than the cost of carrying the commodity over the rail lines. They are also inquiring as to what guarantee they will have, if the extra cost is to be absorbed by the coal producers or their representatives, that consumers from other parts of the country will not step in and bid the prices up still further.

The official order giving preference to the use of cars for bringing coal into New England has not met the opposition of injunction proceedings in the courts, that it was thought might be instituted by the mine operators, but it has not yet resulted in the arrival of any considerable quantities of coal in Lowell.

The quantity of coal on hand in the various industries of the city, it is asserted, cannot be even approximately estimated. It is known, though, that practically all of the big mills are operating more or less on a hand-to-mouth basis, and that very little in the way of a surplus for winter use is being provided.

Close to the Mark

Both the Northeastern and the Eastern Massachusetts street railways are running very close to the empty-coal bin mark. Neither of them has a supply sufficient to last more than a short time, and with supplies coming in dribbles it is a problem how the roads are to be carried through the winter.

In the matter of anthracite coal for home use, the situation is not much better than the bituminous field. Home bins that are commonly filled or in the process of being filled, at this season of the year are empty and the prospect of placing an adequate supply in all of them does not appear bright.

At last accounts there was less than 1000 tons of anthracite coal on hand in the yards of the city and very little additional coal has been arriving from day to day.

People familiar with the situation say that the people generally do not seem to be worrying very much about how they are to keep their homes warm next winter. They have heard the cry of coal famine so often, it is said, that they are not much frightened when it is raised again and for the present they are willing to let George or someone else do the worrying.

OUR FILTRATION PLANT'S ALL RIGHT

None of the filtration plants which commissioner John F. Salmon had an opportunity to see during his visit to Canada last week where he attended the 40th annual convention of the American Water Works association comes up to the Lowell plant in the production of clean, clear water at a minimum expense, the commissioner said today. Mr. Salmon had a chance to inspect many of the plants in and around Montreal but found none that equaled the local system.

SHORTHAND CLASS FOR CLUB GIRLS

As usual, the shorthand class of Miss Alice Cox for girls of the Community club will be held next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the club rooms in the McKel building. All other classes have been discontinued for the summer season.

Beginning with the first of July, the directors of the girls' community club will arrange vacation parties for the camp at the Riverhurst farmhouse on the Billerica car line. At the present time the camp is used for only a day or two at a time, but after next month parties for a week or more will be planned.

Eugene McCarty Dead

bruises about the body, while Stack is suffering from fractures of the skull, collar bone, right arm and right leg, and severe cuts about the face.

The accident occurred at about 11:30 o'clock, the car being in charge of Fred L. Mason. According to the story given by the police, the car was being operated at a fair rate of speed and when nearing the bend at the parkway, the operator saw two men going arm in arm diagonally across the street. The operator claims he sounded his gong and the two men slowed down as if to let the car go by, but later attempted to cross in front of the electric. Mason reversed the power but was not able to bring his car to a stop before striking the two men.

One of the witnesses of the accident stated this morning that the car was coming down Merrimack street at a pretty fast clip when it struck the two men, throwing McCarthy to one side and dragging Stack along to a point just opposite the Merrimack Clothing company before it was brought to a stop. It was noticed that the motor in the car was smoking and on inquiry it was learned that the operator had to cut the switch in order to stop his car. He said the operator claims he shouted to the men and rang his gong, but the noise of the one-man cars when going along at a good rate of speed invariably drowns out the gong and it is not to be wondered that the two men who were engaged in conversation did not hear the gong. A passing automobile took McCarthy to the Lowell Corporation hospital, while it was some 10 minutes before the ambulance responded for the unfortunate Mr. Stack, who laid on the road, a sorrowful spectacle. His face was a gruesome sight, battered beyond recognition and when the ambulance did come, minus a doctor, it was necessary that the driver administer first aid. The injured man was bandaged up and then rushed to St. John's.

After the accident Operator Mason said he was going along at a rate of speed consistent with public safety, but some of those who were on Merrimack street said that the car was going too fast for public safety. McCarthy passed away at the Lowell Corporation hospital shortly after 2:30 o'clock this morning and the body was later viewed by Medical Examiner T. B. Smith.

It is understood that McCarthy had been a resident of this city only a short time. His address was given as 370 Merrimack street.

BIRDMAN TOOK CHANCES

Drove Plane Nose First Into Sand to Save Woman's Life

Risking his own life and that of a passenger, the pilot of one of the aeroplanes which were steadily employed yesterday at Salisbury beach giving rides in the air for $1 a minute, drove his plane nose first into the sand, splintering the propeller, to avoid striking a woman who dashed into the path of the machine alighting on the beach.

The plane is the property of the American Aerial Service company of Boston and was just alighting after giving a passenger a ten-minute ride and skimming along the beach when the woman dashed into the path. The pilot, on approaching the woman, drove the aeroplane into the air just high enough to clear her head, but did not have power enough to continue the flight and so it dashed to the ground. Fortunately no one was injured.

The long level shore of the beach was used as a base of operations for the planes and the pilots were kept busy all afternoon. For $15 the pilots would take a passenger through the loop-the-loop and side turn and nose spin and for $20 would do all the tricks they knew.

REPAIRING DOORS TO FIRE HOUSES

A general renovation of the doors of the local fire houses is under way under the direction of the public property department. All the doors are being repainted and crevices filled with putty. In the past, when the windows over or near the doors had been washed, the water has leaked down onto the entrances and has had a tendency to rot the wood. By treating them with putty, Commissioner Marchand hopes to preserve the wood.

Employees of the department began painting the interior of the Green school today and will go over it from top to bottom. The Edison and Butler schools will also be painted during the summer vacation.

WAS KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN

George F. Portneuf, aged about 30 years, a former service man residing at 164 Middlesex street, was run over and killed by a freight train at the Fletcher and Dutton streets crossing, late Saturday afternoon. According to witnesses of the accident, Portneuf stepped around the gates and attempted to cross over on bumpers between the cars when the train stopped. When the train started up suddenly, he was thrown to the tracks, where he was crushed beneath the wheels. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell and Sons. He was a nephew of the late Mrs. John H. Clark of this city.

DECLARES EXTRA DIVIDEND
The Middlesex Safe Deposit and Trust company, has declared an extra dividend to stockholders of 2 per cent, payable July 1. This bank also distributes to all employees on July 1, a bonus of 15 per cent, yearly on six months' salaries. The bank carries 19 individuals on its payroll.

NEW AUTO LAW OPERATIVE
The new auto law regarding the right of way at intersecting streets went into effect today and will be drastically enforced by the police. The law states that when machines meet at intersecting streets the one coming from the right has the right of way.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

James H. Blacklock was arraigned in police court today, and pleaded not guilty to drunkenness and operating a motorcycle while under the influence of liquor. He was found guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $10 on the former complaint, and sentenced to one month in the house of correction on the latter. An appeal was entered and he was ordered under bonds of $300 for the superior court.

Carl Castor, aged 18, pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and larceny and was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory. The complaint was made by Officer Rynne, who said that Castor stole his revolver from the bathroom on the boulevard.

John Wislowsky, Walter Naumi, Walter Balena, Dominick Lakoski and Adam Florelo were fined $3 each for being present at a card game on the Lord's day, in Howard street. A complaint was made at the police station by a neighbor that he could not sleep Saturday night, because of the noise the men were making and when the gambling continued into the early hours of Sunday, Officer Conroy made the arrests.

John Mendence, Joseph Perry, Servulo Parinka and Manuel Plimental were each fined $10 for gambling on the Lord's day. They were arrested early Sunday morning, in a house on Charles street.

John B. Curtis, aged 17, Edwin D. Shea, aged 17, and William Bissett, aged 15, all of Cambridge, were granted a continuance until Friday without entering a plea on the charge of breaking, entering and larceny from a camp on the Concord river in Billerica. They were arrested Saturday night by Constables Livingston, O'Brien, Cassins and White of Billerica.

Adelard St. Jean pleaded not guilty to the larceny of a cake valued at $3.13, as much as the complainant stated that she would be satisfied with the return of the cake the court ordered the defendant under bonds of $200 till next Wednesday. The complainant refused to accept the monetary value of the cake and it happened that defendant didn't have the cake with him. The problem was solved when the complainant demanded that another one be made and when St. Jean stated that he had a sister who is a very good cook, the complainant allowed that a cake cooked by defendant's sister would be acceptable.

Thomas Connolly who was arrested about one week ago for drunkenness and given continuance until today to make restitution to Officer Boyle for damaging his uniform, reported this morning that he had made satisfactory settlement with the officer and was released.

GAVE SONG RECITAL AT COLONIAL HALL

Miss Lela Fotiades of the conservatory of music of Paris gave a delightful song recital at the Colonial hall, Middle street Saturday evening. The talented singer was assisted by Miss Ethel Hutchinson of Boston, a pianist of rare ability and the program they rendered was highly appreciated by the large audience.

Since her arrival in this country from Australia Miss Fotiades has entertained large audiences in Boston and New York, while she has contributed largely to the Red Cross and taken an active part in the Liberty bond drive in various states of the union.

The program was as follows:

LOWELL FOURTH IN NAVY ENLISTMENTS

In the report of the number of enlistments for this district from the navy recruiting headquarters in Boston, Lowell, took fourth place in the list for the week ending June 24. Springfield lead the list with 8, Worcester tied with 5, Lynn was third with 7 and Lowell fourth with 6.

In accordance with an order received some time ago Chief Crepeau and his assistants piloted his "receiving ship" from the office of the Governor block to a new port at 105 Central street today, where all future work, beginning tomorrow, will be done. The removal of the office was caused by the refusal of the government to pay the increase of rent demanded, which amounted to over a 100 per cent.

ADDITION TO THE OLD MANN SCHOOL

Inasmuch as the wooden addition which is to be erected on the present boys' vocational school building in Broadway is to be merely a temporary structure, Commissioner George E. Marchand is of the opinion that it can be built without causing a violation of the fire district laws.

There has been some criticism of the proposed intention to have the addition built of wood inasmuch as it is within the area set apart by a city ordinance which says that buildings in that area must be fireproof construction. However, Mr. Marchand says the building will probably be used only a year or two and for that reason he thinks there will be no objection to wooden construction. Plans have not yet been completed but it is expected that work will begin on the structure within a few weeks.

Big Revolutionary Plot

ROME, June 26.—Reports of disorders in widely separated parts of Italy appear to corroborate the impression that they are part of a deep scheme to overturn social order throughout the entire country.

At Cadore, Venetia, red flags have been hoisted on the municipal buildings. Telegraph lines have been cut and roads blocked with trees at Lomza, Callazo and Domegge. Carabiniers in armored cars have dispersed rioters at Brissago. At Roncole an aqueduct has been cut. Discontent which has long been held under restraint at Pionbano has burst out violently and soldiers and police are protecting the shops in this city. They have been attacked with revolvers and hand grenades and have replied with machine gun fire. Many on each side have been killed and wounded.

TO ANNOUNCE A MOST FORTUNATE AND OPPORTUNE PURCHASE OF THE

Entire Furniture, Rugs, Linoleum and Range Stock

Of James Greenwood & Sons, 365 Essex St., Lawrence, Mass.

This firm has been in the furniture business in the same building for 50 years, and has a reputation for the quality of their goods, and their honorable business method second to none. Wishing to retire from business they offered us their stock last Monday. We bought it in one hour. Took the inventory Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Started moving the stock to Lowell Thursday, with 5 (five) Auto Trucks, including two of Hefler's big Furniture Moving Vans, and at this writing have 21 Truck Loads moved into our store and into the old Father John's Building in Central Street that we have hired for storage, and as soon as the stock is all moved and can be displayed, we will announce

THE COAL SHORTAGE

That New England railroads are facing a possible suspension of business as a result of a coal shortage, is the statement made by Mr. Storow, of Boston, the fuel administrator of the state and a man who is not disposed to be an alarmist. He has fully investigated the prospects of securing a supply of coal for New England and his decision is based upon the actual conditions. "What is the cause of all this?" will be asked.

The cause, as Mr. Storow sees it, is very plain. He felt that he had authority from the Interstate Commerce commission to order priority of coal shipment for New England, but at a conference in New York, he found serious opposition to this plan and as a result it is held inoperative.

Thus the interests of New England are imperiled and not only the railroads may be obliged to cease running but textile and other industries on which the people depend for subsistence may be forced to shut down.

At the bottom of all this trouble is the "outlaw" railroad strike which has tied up thousands of cars of coal in docks and railroad yards as the regular railroad employees refuse to handle it. At the railroad piers in New York, Mr. Storow saw long trains of coal bound for New England, held up for weeks because of the switchmen's strike. Thus the situation is menacing unless relief comes soon.

Never in the history of the railroads in this country has the service been so woefully deficient as since the return of the roads to private ownership. Why is this?

By many American citizens who are familiar with the conditions, it is believed that there is an "understanding" among railroad men or some of them, to drive the roads back into government ownership. What's the result? Poor service, much worse indeed than could be brought about by the "outlaw" strike, which shows that some other agency is contributing to the delay and congestion in freight yards.

It is noticeable also that recently there are many train wrecks from causes that seem to indicate malicious action by somebody. This may be the work of anarchists, but if the strikes continue, and if a feeling of general dissatisfaction prevails, the railroad men will be blamed for the wrecks which have become so numerous.

These are very serious matters; but the public is watching and may soon make up its mind to put an end to a state of affairs that has become widely menacing to the people and the industries upon which they have to depend.

If the employees of the railroads carry this antagonistic policy much farther, it will be in order for the government not to take over the railroads—it will not do that—but to adopt a policy under which railroad strikes for any cause or pretext whatsoever, will be prohibited under severe penalties including jail sentences. The public must have some protection against the possibility of paralysis to the railroads and the industries of the country, by strikes of railroad employees.

If the railroad employees undertake to strike against the public safety and the maintenance of the industries necessary to the existence of the people, the power of the government will have to be exerted as it was in the Boston police strike, and a new order of things will be established in which no body of individuals, whether organized or otherwise, will be allowed to interfere with the paramount rights of the public.

SOUTH LOWELL CAR SERVICE

Nothing half so preposterous as the proposed discontinuance of the car service to South Lowell, has been brought to public attention for many a year. The public cannot force the Eastern Massachusetts company to run over a bridge that is unsafe. No sensible person would favor such a course, for the reason that it would endanger the lives of the passengers. But the plain duty of the officials concerned, is to determine the condition of the bridge forthwith through examination by competent experts. City Engineer Kearney, we understand, believes the bridge is safe for ordinary car service whereas the company's engineer thinks it is unsafe.

If it is unsafe, then it is the duty of the city to have it made safe without delay.

It is proposed to build a new bridge. That is no reason why the service should be terminated at the present or any future time. If the old bridge needs to be strengthened in order to serve until such time as the construction work begins, let that be attended to at once.

During the construction of the new bridge, it might be feasible to keep one track open for cars even if a temporary bridge be necessary for the purpose.

If this cannot be done, then the street railway company will have to leave a sufficient number of cars on the south side of the bridge to provide conveyance daily for the employees of the U. S. Cartridge plant in South Lowell and for the public generally. The connection could be made by a footbridge.

To suspend the car service even temporarily should not be tolerated on any consideration short of calamity. The company is piling up large deficits against various districts in which it operates and its service in many respects is far short of being satisfactory. The company will not be allowed to make any unreasonable and arbitrary decision that would seriously handicap the work of an important industry. Its ultimatum against the jitneys was allowed. If it fails or refuses to accommodate the public the jitneys will soon be restored.

THE RELEASED "REDS"

There may be sound legal reasons for Judge Anderson's decision in the federal district court in Boston, releasing 17 alleged "Reds" from custody. Nevertheless, the average citizen will feel satisfaction in learning that the final opinion of the supreme court on the subject is to be obtained through an appeal to be made by the department of justice.

The trouble with Judge Anderson's opinion is—and all who would mollycoddle the "Reds" seem to have a similar viewpoint—that he fails to realize that the supreme law of nations as of individuals is that of self-preservation. The paramount duty of government is to protect itself.

When a man's life and property are menaced the law does not require him to be particularly nice in the choice of the weapons he uses for protection. If people prowl around in the vicinity where wild men are waving torches near a powder magazine, they can blame no one but themselves if they get hurt while the process of subduing the lunatics is going on.

Groups of communists, anarchists, and I. W. W.'s may be shrewd enough to technically keep their activities within lines drawn by the law, but it is well known that they are revolutionary bodies seeking the overthrow of the government by violence. They constitute a menace against which the state must protect itself.

HOUSING PROBLEMS

Some very sad cases come to light as a result of the great shortage of tenements. The newspapers have daily accounts of people driven to the most extreme state of desperation as a result of being forced to move out of their homes without having any place to move to except the street or the poorhouse. It is daily recorded that many families are homeless and dependent upon the good will of their neighbors and friends for temporary shelter. Some who have no friends, or who felt that they were friendless, foolishly resorted to suicide to end their troubles.

It seems that the time has arrived when some agency should be opened to aid families who are thus left homeless so that they may not be permitted to suffer from want or obliged to sleep on the commons and parks. Any such agency should report at least to Mayor Thompson that he may use his influence in helping them to find a home. It seems the Chamber of Commerce might do something in this line if it inaugurated a movement for the building of temporary dwellings to serve families who are evicted and left without a place in which they can stop over night. The situation is not quite so bad here as in other places perhaps, but judging from reports from different parts of the city, the house shortage is daily becoming more acute.

There are doubtless some people in Lowell, as in other places, who have sold their liberty bonds and possibly mortgaged their houses, to buy oil stocks that they had been led to expect would double and triple in value almost overnight and which have ultimately turned out to be worthless. To such people it will be welcome news to learn that something like sixty persons have been indicted in New York for selling such wild cat securities, and that while the mills of justice are sometimes slow in getting into operation they often grind exceedingly small at the last.

All the suffragists and women voters yet to be are now looking hopefully to Tennessee. Chairman Cummings follows up the appeal of President Wilson with a strong letter to Governor Roberts of that state for a special session of the legislature to ratify the 19th amendment. The chances that the governor will do so are very encouraging.

A statement by the city collector of Boston, regarding the issuance of warrants for the arrest of delinquent poll tax payers, calls attention anew to the Springfield man in whose case the authorities found out, after putting him in jail for a similar cause, that there was no legal way provided for getting him out so long as the tax remained unpaid.

It is still a pretty difficult thing to punish a woman adequately for the crime of homicide. Eleanor Baker, sent to Worcester county jail for a year, after having pleaded guilty as accessory to the crime of murder, has been pardoned after serving a little more than six months of her sentence.

Robert Bruce and his spider have nothing for persistence on those young people of Billerica who, having been whipped to a frazzle on a proposition to legalize Sunday baseball at one town meeting, are going right on preparing to renew the warfare at the next gathering of the town's voters.

More confidence would be placed in the two to one betting in Wall street on Cox as the successful candidate at San Francisco, as a straw indicating the direction of the political wind, if six to one odds had not been offered there a short time ago that Wood would be the winner at Chicago.

The Harvard young man who, when asked the meaning of the word "veritas" on the college seal replied that he was not sure but he thought it meant "To h— with Yale," ought to be satisfied with the result of the annual New London boat race.

All Lowell will say Amen to the eulogies on the life and character of the late Judge Samuel P. Hadley uttered by the members of the local bar association. He was a loyal citizen, faithful friend, and a merciful and upright judge.

Judging from the expressions of a number of leading citizens, the engraving of a city-manager plan onto Lowell's charter would be about as popular as the former kaiser would be at a meeting of the American Legion.

The republican members of the Manchester, N. H., board of aldermen have asked democratic Mayor Verrette to resign. The mayor might courteously respond, "After you, gentlemen."

The thieves who held up the train carrying Iowa's delegates to the democratic convention delayed their activities too long. They should have operated while the representatives of "big business" were on their way to Chicago.

We wish to inform visitors to this city, and people passing through it in automobiles, that Lowell is really a much nicer place than the wretched condition of some of its streets would indicate.

Is there any connection between the fact that the "barefoot season" is here and the temporary shut down of some of Lowell's hosiery mills?

The proposition to resume sugar rationing has been dropped and instead an effort is being made to secure sugar enough for everybody. Watch how it works.

That promised relief in the coal shortage did not reach New England despite the assurances of Washington.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Recently on every Sunday morning, a number of great motor trucks loaded with people have passed through Lowell en route to Lakeview or Long Pond. Down Cambridge way, there are a great many people who have spent their vacations in past years at Long Pond; and they still prefer it and Lakeview to the beach. Most people like to get away from the places that lie at their doors. A change of scene and cool shade with perhaps an opportunity to do a little fishing are the chief attractions sought by these parties. Yesterday one party bound for Lakeview had three barges carrying about 180 people.

At Salisbury beach yesterday, two airplanes were making short trips from the beach, each carrying one passenger at a time for a dollar per minute. They were kept busy as the applicants for air flights were numerous, despite the expense. In the afternoon one machine was damaged by taking a nose spin into the sand in an effort to avoid hitting a woman who ran in front of it as the machine landed. The aviator put on power enough to lift the machine over the woman's head and lest the tail end should hit her he turned the tail upward and the plane dug into the sand breaking the propellers and damaging the engine.

The Man About Town recently visited a friend in Boston who has a unique hobby. He is a printer who has been connected with one of the Boston newspapers for more than 36 years. A few years ago he found that his work was getting on his nerves and that he was falling physically. Instead of consulting a doctor he became his own physician and doped out a remedy for himself. He concluded that the best medicine for him would be more exercise in the open air. About that time a catalogue of rose bushes reached him and he ordered a few of the plants. He has been ordering them ever since from every quarter of the globe where roses grow. These he grows in his back yard that has an area of only about 600 or 700 square feet. Therein, however, are hundreds of bushes and no two of them produce flowers that are exactly alike. Every bush is treated by the owner as an individual friend, to be carefully guarded and protected, and each bush has a separate and interesting story to tell him regarding the source from whence it came and its habits and ways of growth. Not a single blossom is allowed to mature that is not perfect. Not a flower is ever sold. The choicest roses go to friends and the sick in hospitals. Just now the owner of the roses is the most popular man in the neighborhood among young women. No, we are not going to give his name and address for some of Lowell's misses might be seeking his acquaintance.

It is always a pleasure to record the success of a Lowell young man or woman in any undertaking or vocation he or she may be pursuing. The innate ability, tact and discretion which Miss May E. Lowney is showing in her position as assistant director of vocational training for the industrial accident board in this commonwealth is certainly pleasing and gratifying to her friends here in her home city. Naturally modest and unassuming, Miss Lowney has been the recipient of so many encomiums from admirers throughout the state that it is fitting she should receive a word of praise from home. A hard worker, a tireless enthusiast in the labor she so splendidly handles and a deep student of the subject, it is little wonder that she has achieved success. Miss Lowney's contribution to the Catholic Charities Review, an excerpt of which was published in The Sun recently, shows not only a clear insight into the work, but brings out several phases of this vocational training which it is advantageous to the public to know. Miss Lowney told me recently that she was apprehensive lest some might view these matters of vocational training rather ultra-conservatively. There are so many shining examples of the good that comes from rehabilitation work that there should be genuine and inspiring enthusiasm for it everywhere. A talk with Miss Lowney will convince one that she has the ability to arouse this enthusiasm and the industrial accident board is surely fortunate in having in such an important position a capable, capable young woman, who, in the parlance of the day, is "very much on the job."

WAS FOUND DEAD

Body of Unknown Man Found Near Roadside

The body of a man believed to be a resident of Framingham, but whose identity has not yet been established, was found in the grass along the roadside in Livingston avenue, yesterday forenoon, and a short distance away was found a bottle labeled "Carbolic acid—poison." Medical Examiner T. B. Smith ordered the body removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker George W. Healey in Branch street, where it was found that the mouth and lips of the dead man showed acid burns, indicating that in all probability, death was due to poisoning.

The man was about 35 years of age, complexion dark, dark brown hair, slight of build, sound teeth. He wore blue trousers with orange stripes, black belt, dark brown shoes and heavy underwear. Near the body was found a straw hat which bore the firm name of "Carpenter," Framingham, and the initials "R. J. D." In the trousers were found a weaver's knife and book and a New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad ticket from Lowell to Framingham dated June 21.

The wettest place on earth is Cherrango, in southwestern Assam, rainfall there reaching 505 inches in 1892.

SEEN AND HEARD

And now the sun never sets on British oil.

Maybe the price of sugar is made high by the good, rich soil they are putting in it now.

One shouldn't speak of election returns in Mexico. Down there an official never returns.

The profiteer finds that blaming high prices on the cost of labor works just as well as blaming it on the war.

If a bathing suit is comfortable on the beach, will some one please explain why the ladies don't wear them down town.

The tumult and the shouting dies; the captains and the kings depart. Still the Balkan war dog lies, waiting to make another start.

How fine it would be to find some remote summer resort where those who sell things to eat haven't learned to charge a dollar for a fried egg.

The Coral Necklace
A man purchased some red flannel shirts guaranteed not to shrink. He reminded the salesman forcibly of the guarantee some weeks later.
"Have you had any difficulty with them?" the latter asked.
"No," replied the customer, "only the other morning when I was dressing my wife said to me, 'John, when did you buy that coral necklace?'"

Didn't Know "Risky"
At an engineering school a pupil began to whistle at his work so shrilly as to rise above the turmoil of the lathes and mills. "Stop that noise," said the instructor.

"But Ruskin praises the man who whistles at his work," was the reply.
"Don't quote your low-down music hall comedians to me!" was the stern reply.

Incomparable
"O, poet!" I pleaded, "O master of Art! Sing me a song for my wounded heart."
O, sing me your sweetest once. But the poet put in, as he nibbled his pen.
"The cost of sugar is past all bounds!"
I am buying it now in quarters.

"O, anchorite (father! O, celibate saint! O, hermit, free of all earthly taint! O, grant me part of your soul's peace now!"
But the hermit replied, as he beat his brow.
"Nor shall I say how to find relief. From the wages of sin and the price of beef?"

"O, lover, arouse you! 'tis spring! 'tis spring! Let the wine in your arteries dance and sing! Let us cast off care, with the world well lost!"
But the lover replied, in a voice of frost.
"Cupid and Psyche have mournful news: Their horns are banned by the price of shoes."

"O, modern Maecenas, I seek your shrine! Your home is a palace almost divine; O, here is a haven of solace and rest—"
But Maecenas remarked, with his chin in his chest.
"You better stick round till we get you a bite. But say! ain't the price of potatoes a fright!"

—EDMUND VANCE COOKE.

By O. H. Joynt
Menics were first used by the Sandwich Islanders. The carefree Sandwichmen plinked Capt. Cook's party. That broke up the first Cook's tour. It almost ended in conkery, so to speak. Those who were not cooked or sandwiched returned and established plinketing in Europe. Contrary to general belief Atilla the Hun, was not the first plinketer. Our office boy favors plinkies.

"I always go to two," said he, "Milkman's and Orphans."
"We knew he wasn't a milkman. They have hard faces."
"Are you an orphan?" asked us scowlingly.

"No, but I have three cousins who are," replied he smilingly. No picnic is complete without a goat. Cows may be substituted if no goats are handy. The goat enters in the second act. (The act where Kitty finds the snake and thinks it bit her) and is driven away with sticks, also screams, also shrieks. Also bricks. N. B.—The goat always consumes the very cake that Max wanted Aunt Mary to try before giving her the receipt. (One egg, y' know.) A learned jurist has said that marriages which resulted from picnic engagements are usually lasting. This is because if the loving couple are able to remain in each other's company an entire day under picnic conditions without cracking under the strain, neither will ever have courage enough to apply for divorce. Plinkies are always held near water in order that Willie may scare Max by attempting to drown. In properly ordered plinkies Max always fills the oxfores she was intending to give to the Ladies' Aid rummage sale with black muck try to rescue Willie who doesn't want to be rescued. We will draw the asbestos curtain on the concluding scene. Also the Epilogue wherein William receives what he has been promised all day. He receives it, you know, because he ate the ice cream that remained in the bottom of the freezer and was destined for Paw's lunch pail. In conclusion—plinkies are a national habit, sometimes thought to be a disease. Like the w. k. measles they are most prevalent in the young, but go hardest with the mature. They are a summer disease.

FEDERAL OFFICERS MAKE TWO ARRESTS

Although the activities of the federal prohibition officers were directed to this city late Saturday and to Chelmsford on Sunday afternoon, James J. Havana Rocked by Bomb Explosions

HAVANA, Cuba, June 28.—Downtown Havana was shaken shortly before midnight last night by the explosion of two bombs which had been placed in apartments in the walls of the second precinct police station by parties not yet apprehended. One man was injured by flying debris. A few minutes later another and heavier bomb exploded in front of a pawn shop smashing in the window and throwing articles in all directions. Police officials found in the wall of the police station another bomb which had failed to explode.

MAPLE TREE FLATS

Maple-tree flats doesn't look like much of a place. With your earth eyes and my earth eyes, we should only see a tall, graceful tree with many branches and thick green leaves, standing near to the edge of a wood. But there was one pair of eyes that didn't peep, and one voice that didn't chatter, for Mr. Oscar Owl in his night-cap and night-shirt was sound asleep in his bedroom! He hadn't heard a thing.

HELD PICNIC AT PINEHURST PARK

The annual picnic of the Calvary Baptist church was held Saturday afternoon and evening at Pinehurst park. In the sports the single men defeated the married men in a baseball game by the score of 9 to 7. Alfred Kennedy acted as umpire. Among the younger boys the 50-yard dash was won by Jack Kydd. David Browning second; lobster race by David Browning. David McLean, 1st; potato race by David Browning. In the sports for the younger girls the 25-yard dash was won by Miss Kenyon; the three-legged race by Miss Kenyon and Miss Craig. Among the older girls the 50-yard dash was won by Harriet Hardy; Carrie Stewart second; baseball throw by Mrs. F. KLOBY WINS DECISION OVER LAWLOR

Tommy Kloby Corcoran, New England welterweight champion, had little difficulty defeating Jack Lawlor, the Omaha lightweight, in their 12-round bout at the Cuddy arena in Lawrence Saturday afternoon. The bout went the distance with Kloby getting the award by Referee Tommy Sullivan. About 10,000 fans, many from Lowell, were present.

Kloby's victory was clear cut, as he had the advantage in all but three rounds. In these sessions, Lawlor showed that he is a clever performer and a good fighter. After remaining on the defensive much of the time in the first five rounds, Lawlor cut loose in the sixth and brought the fans to their feet. Again in the seventh he essayed the aggressive, but his activity proved disastrous. He attempted to swap punches with the Lawrence brawler, but was forced to back away, when Kloby let go a terrific right that landed on the left eye. Kloby followed with a stinging left to the mid-section. Lawlor slowed up and was content from then on until the final round to sidestep, cover and back away. He made Kloby miss many blows, but the Lawrence champ kept right after him all the time, let him get his hands up and then met them with precision. Many of them reached the objective, but none had sufficient steam to drop the westerner. Kloby's admirers called many times for a blow that would end hostilities and while the Y.D. hero tried hard to gratify their wishes, Lawlor proved clever enough to keep his jaw well protected, and pull out of range of the sleep-producing blows.

In the final round Lawlor showed much class, and while Kloby met him at his own range, the westerner got over more blows than he took. The men were battling furiously as the final round ended. Both men were in great condition. Kloby again demonstrated his wonderful aggressiveness, his willingness to take blows, to get over a few, and while Lawlor caught him a number of heavy wallop, none seemed to have much effect on the Lawrencean. He entered the ring confident and never changed his attitude. He went to the center like a race horse, and opened up and continued his boring in his trip hammer swinging, from gong to gong.

Lawlor showed flashes at times, but with the exception of the sixth, seventh and twelfth, he fought a cautious and defensive battle.

George Brooks (Young Gardner) of Lowell put it all over Tommy Carson of Lawrence in the semi-final number. The Lowell lad gave his older opponent a real boxing lesson. He shot lefts and rights at Carson so fast that the Lawrence boy looked lost in and landed on his head. So big a head did Brooks put up that early in the fight he was appealing from the fans to stop it. It continued for the distance, eight rounds, with Brooks being awarded a well earned decision. Barney Burke and Young Keichell, both of Lawrence, fought the bit in a six round event. Jack Nicholson was the referee and his decision in favor of Burke proved very unpopular.

The second event was one of eight rounds. Mike Castle of Lawrence, getting the award over Kid Mitchell of Providence. Castle had Mitchell shadowed until the sixth round, when a solar plexus. Castle claimed a foul, but the referee refused to recognize it. Castle took another similar punch and went down for the count of nine. He arose and gamely stuck through the referee's hands and managed to hold his own during the remaining two rounds of the bout.

Edly Flynn of Everett appeared in the ring previous to the main event to challenge Kloby. The Y.D. chap immediately accepted. Joe Thomas, former middleweight champion of the world, who handled Brooks in his bout, was introduced and he received a great ovation. Several other notables were also present by Announcer Ben Keaveney.

SOUTH END VICTORS

Defeat Mathews in Loosely Played Game at Spalding Park

The South Ends strengthened their claim on the amateur championship of the city at Spalding park Saturday afternoon when they defeated the Mathews Temperance Institute, 8 to 5, before a crowd numbering several hundred.

Neither team was up to its real pitch and at times the contest resembled the efforts of schoolboys rather than those of experienced outfields. Men were allowed to scamp about the bases at will and a total of seven errors for both teams indicates only feebly the ragged playing evident at frequent intervals.

For the first few innings, the set-to was a see-saw affair. The South Ends got away to a lead of three in the first on a brace of hits and errors. The Mathews evened the score in the second in much the same manner and forged ahead in the fourth on a two-bagger by Purcell and singles by Warren, White, Wheeler and Dean, aided and abetted by a passed ball. Winning two runs. The South Ends had scored their fourth in the third inning and in the fifth clunged the game with three more, caused mainly by Purcell's bad throw to first on Brown's easy groundout. Another run came in the ninth, but the temperance men were silent after the fourth.

Devlin on the mound for the winners pitched a fairly steady game, but little niftier support. Wheeler went well for the Mathews until the fourth when the South common men got to him. Daly coming in from rightfield, kept the damage at a minimum for the rest of the game. "Hank" O'Leary led the hitters with three singles and Walter Quilley started in the field with his running catch of White's fly in the sixth. The score:

RECENT ENGLISH DERBY GREATEST ON RECORD

EPSON DOWNS, Eng., June 25.—

The great English derby, always a fashion show and a carnival as well as a horse race, this year eclipsed the records of its hundred and fifty years with an attendance which crowded the race course to standing capacity and populated the hills in a day with a crazy patterned city of hundreds of thousands of merry-makers, to whom the racing was only an incident in the celebration of the annual festival.

My lord and my lady, the barmecide and the coster-monger, and all classes of Britons between, were there, hobnobbing with pleasure seekers from other lands—Americans, Frenchmen, Belgians, Italians, Russians, Czechs, Slovaks and titled as well as work-worn Orientals and Asiatics. The low green hills and hedged-in fields about the famous course were blackened with a multitude of nearly 1,000,000 persons, thousands of whom slept in the warm sun throughout the day, apparently unconcerned about the "derby" contest.

The pilgrimage to the downs began the day before the derby. An unbroken tide of strange equinees flowed into Epson over all roads. Luxurious limousines crawled along the crowded ways the make of two-wheeled donkey carts, and the caravans were checked with the picturesque turn-of-the-century motor-driven vehicles limited their usefulness—the chase, the coach-and-four, the Irish jaunting car, the dog cart, and odd home-made wagons and carts. Not infrequently appeared disabled army officers riding through the dust in motor-driven wheel chairs.

Thousands trooped in across the downs. Children bounced in the grass along the roads, hailing the fine automobiles and their silk-clad occupants cheerily. Here and there a woman with a baby in her arms begged a penny.

While rest a mile from the course the later arrivals were forced by the congestion to park their vehicles and walk—carrying—with them their luncheon baskets, and jugs of ale or whiskey, of which there was a large and carefully conserved supply.

The pleasure seekers who camped on the course overnight hastily pitched tents or ramshackle lean-tos, made tea and served luncheons. Many slept in the open, and down in Epson a train of cars was commandeered to house the more fastidious. After dark bonfires were built, flares put up, and all the countryside was fantastically illumined.

Even when the king and queen and attendant nobility appeared there was only a ripple of applause, consisting chiefly of perfunctory "Hear, hear" and a nodding of heads indicating approval. Above this the raucous cries of the tipsters and the hoarse jargon of the bookmakers could be heard.

Few persons except those in the stands saw the races, and these displayed no excitement, beyond calling out "they're off" or making premature announcement of winners.

The crowds stood up when the horses entered in the derby run, but relaxed into lazy attitudes when the winner was known. It was still the middle of the afternoon and few left when the racing was finished. They made it a full holiday, wandering around and over the course, patronizing the vendors of sausages, lemonades and fish, or try-your-weight machines, or the three-card-men, until night had fallen.

FRED MOORE BACK FROM THE WEST

Fred Moore, owner of the Lowell Polo club and president of the American Roller Polo league, has returned from an extended trip of the west. While out that way he visited many of the polo stars and learned that all would return to the east in September when the season opens. He said that there was no truth in the report that polo would be started in the west this year. Mr. Moore found upon returning home a number of applications for membership in the league next season. He stated that indications now pointed to a night-team circuit next season.

Here's the whole story—

CAMELS never let up in the genuine pleasure they supply smokers! That's because their quality is extraordinary and because they are an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos. Camels never tire your taste, no matter how liberally you smoke, and never leave any unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste or any unpleasant cigaretty odor.

Every puff of Camels is a thrill of pleasure because their flavor is so refreshing—so unusual! Every puff convinces you more and more how greatly you prefer Camels blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight. It's a fact you'll prove out for yourself that never have you smoked a cigarette so satisfying, so enjoyable, so always appetizing as Camels!

Camels popularity in every corner, bush and burg in the nation is the most convincing proof that they are made to meet your taste! For your own real satisfaction, compare Camels with any cigarette in the world at any price!

LEAGUE PLANK FRAMED WET AND DRY PLANKS

BY SEN. WALSH

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has prepared a foreign relations plank which he will ask the committee on resolutions to adopt.

"I believe that it is the duty of the democrats of the nation to declare themselves on our foreign relations and I am prepared to fight for the adoption of this plank or one that is substantially along the same lines," said Senator Walsh. His plank says: "The democratic party favors a League of Nations to promote and maintain international peace and amity and will do all things within its power to establish such a league."

"We denounce any movement of any political party seeking to make the ratification of the Versailles treaty a political issue in the coming election. The drafting and ratification of international agreements and treaties should never be subjected to partisan or political consideration."

Approves Wilson's Ideals

"We approve the ideals and principles which President Wilson espoused in the name of the American people and his splendid efforts under most trying and difficult circumstances to establish a league to promote international justice and peace."

"The democratic party, meeting for the first time since the presentation to the American people of the issues growing out of the Versailles treaty and League of Nations covenant further declares that its candidates, if elected, shall support the following principles as fundamentally necessary to secure the approval and support of the American government to any treaty or covenant for a league of nations, and that it will support no international contract or arrangement which obligates the United States to:

Walsh's Proposed Principles

"(1)—Engage in wars waged by foreign powers; or to submit to a foreign tribunal questions of its vital interests."

"(2)—Which limits or impairs the right of the United States to arm for the national defense when it is menaced by foreign powers or when the country or its armed forces have been attacked."

"(3)—Which gives to any foreign state or empire a vote in the league in the aggregate greater than that of the United States."

"(4)—Which endangers or impairs the Monroe Doctrine, or which does not leave the United States, upon proper notice, free to withdraw from the league on its own terms."

"Reiterating our faith in the doctrine that governments derive their power from the consent of the governed, the democratic party declares that it will not consent to any league which obligates the United States to assist in the subjugation of any people or to aid in preventing any people from seeking to gain their liberty and establish a government of their own free choice."

Mayor Quinn Named

Senator Walsh for the resolutions committee and also selected him to head the delegation. The sixth district of Columbia delegates, including Secretary Colby, adopted a resolution pledging their support to Atty. Gen. Palmer for president. Secretary Colby was elected as a member of the resolutions committee. Virginia delegates named Carter Glass as member of the resolutions committee. Ratifying the instructions given them by the state committee, the delegates resolved to cast a solid vote on the first ballot at least for Senator Glass as presidential nominee, but took no binding action as to further votes.

No caucus was held by Wisconsin delegates, but members of the party said McAdoo sentiment predominated.

Profiteering Plank

profiteering proposed by William J. Bryan. It follows:

"The democratic party pledges the nation to rid it of the profiteer and to close the door against the return. It will endeavor to eliminate all unnecessary middlemen to the encouragement of organizations among producers that will bring those who sell and those who use together. It will enact and enforce laws that will effectively prevent excessive charges by such middlemen as are necessary. To this end it will demand legislation subjecting to the penalties of criminal law all corporate officers and employees who give or carry instructions that result in extortion; it will make it unlawful for anyone engaged in interstate commerce to make the sale of one article dependent upon the purchase of another article and it will require such corporations to disclose to customers the difference between costs and selling price or limit the profit that can be legally charged as the rate of interest is now limited. It will also endeavor to create in the several state commissions with ample powers as those of the federal trade commission and to enact laws authorizing each local community to create as needed, similar commissions for the investigation of local charges of profiteering."

The clause to punish profiteering by corporation officers Mr. Bryan said, is designed to meet court decisions preventing prison sentence being imposed upon corporation officers.

Drastic Anti-Liquor Plank by

Bryan — Burleson Leads

"Liberal" Forces

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Both wet and dry yesterday launched their planks on the democratic seas of alcoholic differences, with a stormy passage promised to the final harbor of the convention floor.

For the drys William J. Bryan made public his proposed plank, a sweeping declaration for enforcement of the Volstead law without increase in alcoholic content of the beverages.

From the wet came alternative planks drafted by Postmaster General Burleson. One declares for "individual liberty" and modification of the Volstead law to remove its "drastic and unreasonable features," and the alternative for amendment permitting beverages "in fact not intoxicating."

The planks are to be presented to the resolutions committee upon its organization, and regardless of the outcome there, it is generally expected that the liquor fight will reach the convention floor.

Both factions hard at work

With both "wet" and "dry" factions working hard through the Sabbath, there also was a strong movement to prevent any mention of the liquor question in the platform, a movement backed by many powerful leaders.

The Bryan prohibition plank follows: "We heartily congratulate the democratic party on its splendid leadership in the submission and ratification of the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution and we pledge the party to the effective enforcement of the Volstead law, honestly and in good faith, without any increase in the alcoholic content of permitted beverages and without any weakening of any other of its provisions."

"I guess there is no doubt about what that means," said Mr. Bryan. "We will give every delegate a chance to go on record for or against it. I expect to have it adopted by the resolutions committee."

Mr. Burleson, after reading the Bryan plank, gave out his proposals, declaring, however, that he had drafted them by himself and spoke only for himself, and was not to be regarded as the leader of the forces favoring modification of the present laws.

The proposed plank, which Mr. Burleson said he believed would meet the sentiment of the "great majority of the American people," reads: "The open saloon has been generally condemned by the American people as a menace to society and the well being of the people and its restoration should not be tolerated. The validity of the 18th amendment to the constitution having been sustained by the supreme court, any laws enacted under its authority must be strictly enforced."

"However, the democratic party pledges its utmost endeavors to prevent this new grant of federal power from being exercised in such manner as to become oppressive or deprive the people of that individual liberty which it was the purpose of the union of states to guarantee and preserve through all time. The Volstead act, vetoed by a democratic president and passed over his veto by a republican congress, is an extreme exercise of the powers granted by the 18th amendment, and it should be so amended in strict conformity with the spirit and purpose of the constitution as to eliminate therefrom its drastic and unreasonable features. We favor an amendment to the federal constitution providing that all amendments hereafter proposed thereto to be ratified or rejected by a referendum of the qualified voters of the several states of the Union."

searched in vain for one constructive suggestion for the reformation of the conditions which it criticizes and deplores," he continued.

"The oppressed peoples of the earth will look to it in vain. It contains no message of hope for Ireland; no word of mercy for Armenia; and it conceals a sword for Mexico. It is the work of men concerned more with material things than with human rights. It contains no thought, no purpose which can give impulse or thrill to those who love liberty and hope to make the world a safer and happier place for the average man."

Peace and War Records

He declared that the peace time record of the democratic party from March, 1913, to the outbreak of the world war has to its credit "more effective, constructive and remedial legislation than the republican party had placed upon the statute books in a generation."

Praising the administration's course in the war, he said: "We fought a great war, for a great cause and we had a leadership that carried America to higher heights of honor and power and glory than she has ever known before in her entire history."

"Let no one misunderstand us. These great affairs were carried forward under the auspices of American patriotism, supported by the courage and spirit of our people. All this is freely and gladly acknowledged, but surely the time has come when, because of the calculated criticism and premeditated calumnies of the opposition, we are entitled to call attention to the fact that all of these things were accomplished under the leadership of a great Democrat and of a great democratic administration. If the republican leaders are not able to rejoice with us in this American triumph, they should have the grace to remain silent, for it does not lie in the mouths of those who conducted the Spanish-American war to indulge in the luxury of criticism."

Cleanest War in History

Referring to congressional investigations by "smelling committees," he said that over 20 investigations have been made, over two million dollars wasted and "the result has been to prove that it was the cleanest war ever fought in the history of civilization."

"The republican party became so fixed in its incorrigible habit of conducting investigations that it finally turned to the fruitful task of investigating itself. They discovered fraud and graft and gross and inexcusable expenditures. The revelations disclose the fact that the meeting at Chicago was not a convention but an auction. The highest bidder, however, did not get the prize. The public, which overlooked the proceedings, frustrated the initial purpose. The Chicago convention left the democratic party as the sole custodian of the honor of the country."

Peace achievements of the democratic party, he asserted, "freed the farmer from the deadening effects of usurious financial control. Labor was given its Magna Charta of liberty. Business and finance were released from the thrall of uncertainty and hazard."

Some of the Achievements

"The income tax law," he said, "relieved our law of the reproach of being unjustly burdensome to the poor. The extravagances and inequities of the tariff system were removed and a non-partisan tariff commission created. Pan-Americanism was encouraged and the bread thus cast upon the waters came back to us manifold. Alaska was opened to commerce and development. Dollar diplomacy was destroyed. A corrupt lobby was driven from the national capitol. An effective seaman's act was adopted. The federal trade commission was created. Child labor legislation was enacted. The parcel post and the rural free delivery were developed. A good roads bill and a rural credits act were passed. A secretary of labor was given a seat in the cabinet of the president. Eight-hour laws were adopted. The Clayton amendment to the Sherman anti-trust act was passed, freeing American labor and taking it from the list of commodities. The Smith-Lever bill for the improvement of agricultural conditions was passed. A corrupt practices act was adopted. A well considered warehouse act was passed. Federal employment bureaus were created. Farm loan banks, postal savings banks and the federal reserve system were established."

"The federal reserve system, passed over the opposition of the leaders of the republican party, enabled America to withstand the strain of war without shock or panic and ultimately made our country the greatest creditor nation of the world."

Turning to the record of the republican congress since 1915, Mr. Cummings said it was "barren of achievement, shameful in waste of time and money and without parallel for its ineffectiveness, failures and repudiations."

President Wilson's two appeals, before congress for legislation dealing with profiteering, reduction of taxation, aid for soldiers and laws to improve relations of capital and labor were ignored, he declared, and "after a year of sterile debate our country has neither peace nor reconstruction."

Wilson "Crucified" by G.O.P.

He dwelt particularly on attacks made upon the president. Malice followed him to the peace table, he said, and widespread propaganda made it imperative when he returned from Paris to "make a struggle for that which had been won at incalculable cost. This meant wreck of health, sickness for months on a bed of pain; and worse, the sickness of heart which comes from the knowledge that political adversaries are savagely destroying not merely the work of men's hands, but the world's hope of settled peace. This was the affliction—this the crucifixion."

Mr. Cummings continued that in one sense "it is quite immaterial what people say about the president. Nothing we can say can add or detract from the fame that will flow down the unending channels of history."

He cited the republican and progressive platforms of 1916 as part of the record placing this country in favor of the League of Nations.

"The republican platform contains a vague promise to establish another or a different form of association," he said. "There is no mental dishonesty more transparent than that which expresses fealty to a League of Nations while opposing the only league that exists or is ever apt to exist."

Mexico, Russia, Turkey, U. S. Not In

"What nations stand outside? Revolutionary Mexico, Bolshevik Russia, unspeakable Turkey and—the United States."

"It is not yet too late. Let us stand with the forces of civilization. The choice is plain. It is between the democratic party's support of the League of Nations, with its program of peace, disarmament and world fraternity, and the republican party's platform of repudiation, provincialism, militarism and world chaos."

It is not reservations that the president stands against, said Mr. Cummings, but nullification. He told how President Wilson had published the tentative text of the league covenant widely in 1919, asking for criticism and receiving suggestions from Taft, Hughes and others that were "actually incorporated into the revised draft of the league."

Senator Lodge, he said, refused to offer constructive amendments at any time. "So intolerant was his attitude that he would not even consider a compromise proposed by former President Taft of his own party and which was assured of support of 10 democratic senators. Senator Lodge knew that he controlled the senate and that to his own time and way he would destroy the treaty."

"This is the sordid story of its defeat," said Cummings, after reviewing the senate's action in the matter. "No blacker crime against civilization has ever soiled the pages of our history. The last chapter was written at Chicago."

Re-establish Fruits of Victory

"Let the true purpose of our party be clearly understood," he said in concluding his address. "We stand squarely for the same ideals of peace as those for which the war was fought. We support without flinching the only feasible plan for peace and justice. We will not submit to the repudiation of the peace treaty or to any process by which it is whittled down to the vanishing point. We decline to compromise our principles or pawn our immortal souls for selfish purposes. We do not turn our backs upon the history of the last three years. We seek no avenue of retreat. We insist that the forward course is the only righteous course."

"We seek to re-establish the fruits of victory, to rekindle the good faith of our country and to restore it to its rightful place among the nations of the earth. Our cause constitutes a summons to duty. The heart of America stirs again. The ancient faith revives. The immortal part of man speaks for us. The services of the past, the sacrifices of war, the hope of the future, constitute a spiritual force gathering about our banners. We shall release again the checked forces of civilization and America shall take up once more the leadership of the world."

CONVENTION OPENED

BY J. BRUCE KREMER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—J. Bruce Kremer, vice chairman of the democratic national committee in opening the convention today spoke as follows: My Fellow Democrats:

Led through a labyrinth of devious political pathways, lost in the mazes of political trickery, following the Pied Pipers of republicanism, the Chicago convention emerged upon the well-paved roadway of standstillism.

That heterogeneous mass promulgated a remarkable document—remarkable in the fact that it is a masterly exemplification of the art of evasion. Not content with the direct insult to the intelligence of the progressive elements wrongly placed in their ranks, they once more surrendered the control of their party to the old forces of reaction and nominated a leader of that dynasty of dollars, against whose influence the common people rebelled until the great movement of progressivism drove it from power and installed in its stead a party truly representative of the people.

In marked contrast to the gathering of the opposition, we have met today to deal with living issues and to advise the people of America and of the world of democracy's stand upon the questions of the hour. It is with justifiable confidence that we approach the important work of presenting a platform and naming a candidate, for we offer to America an assurance based on achievement. We present a pledge founded on performance.

The republican party would turn backward, unmindful of the hopes and aspirations of forward-looking men and women, and would have us restore to power reactionary forces which could only result in ruin and disaster, but we will continue to keep our eyes to the front and will hold to the path that during eight glorious years has led America to prosperity, peace and world leadership.

Our opponents speak to the people in the language of yesterday. They see only through the lenses of reaction. Through years of retrogression their party has now reached the decadent stage. The Chicago platform stamps it as a party of destruction. Its declaration of principles condemns but suggests no remedy either for real or fancied ills. It is out of tune with free people everywhere; it is out of harmony with the world's desire; it is no longer, as in the days of its rebirth, stands as a giant championing the cause of freedom, but dwarfed by loss of principle, it has developed into a vicious, crabbed old scold. America will not look for leadership in that party; America will not tolerate the leadership of that party. Never more than now, does our country look to democracy to save it from the course of national degradation prescribed by republicanism, or to save it from abject humiliation before the nations of the earth.

Our party is almost as old as the nation itself. It was created when the forces of popular government assumed for the first time in the world's history the direct conduct of a nation. It has progressed in thought as our nation progressed in growth and attainment. It has kept pace with the time and has measured the tread of the advancing host of liberal government.

Our party has never been an evasive party. It was not evasion that made Thomas Jefferson the patron saint of democratic government; it was not evasion that made Andrew Jackson the personification of honesty and fearlessness; it was not evasion that made the democratic party of today the champion of the world's hopes and neither will it be evasion that will make the nominee of this convention the president of the United States.

Our party will present policies in a direct and constructive way; the republican platform is but an ingenious device meant to conceal irreconcilable differences.

In delivering our message to the American people our party will raise its anchor upon the shores of honesty and stand unflinchingly through the straits of contact.

With civilization's existence jeopardized in the recent inferno of world chaos, America reached by its hand to stay destructive forces. We placed her once more in her exalted position and raised again the fallen torch from whence radiates the light that tempers British bears and softens human souls. The world is waiting to hear the decision of the American elector, the decision of the American people, the decision of the American nation, to place America to take the lead in this great movement, and humanity's voice cries out imploringly to our great nation.

Our nation did not falter in its duty to silence the guns of war; our party will not falter in its duty to perpetuate peace.

SERVICE MEN

URGE BONUS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Service men among convention delegates today perfected plans for obtaining the endorsement of the democratic party for bonus legislation. It was decided to adopt the American Legion's "four way" plan of rewarding veterans of the late war, by extending full insurance, rural or urban home aid, vocational education or flat cash compensation.

Playing cards were invented about the year 1500, to amuse Charles VI, King of France.

New Turn in McAdoo Boom

Continued

elder politicians in their pre-convention conferences.

Keynote by Cummings a Feature

The keynote speech by Homer S. Cummings as temporary chairman, was the principal feature of the day's program. Later in the day, the newly selected convention committees were to furnish the first real developments as they began their task of writing the platform, hearing appeals from contests over delegates' seats and making up the convention rules and a slate of permanent convention officers.

The subject of keenest interest to the delegates manifestly was the impending prohibition fight, but talk of candidates was gaining more and more attention as the rival managers got down to cases with the big body of uninstructed and unpledged delegates.

Today, for the first time, the entire convention personnel was here and the opposing elements were taking definite bearings.

Says McAdoo Would Accept

The latest turn of the McAdoo boom furnished a new angle to the convention preliminaries, but its precise effect on the relative situation of the candidates was not clear. Announcement that the secretary of the Treasury, despite his declaration that he did not want the nomination, would be willing to accept it, was variously accepted by the several elements in the fight.

By some it was declared the development meant that McAdoo, whose supporters hitherto had planned to keep him in the background for favorable ballots, now would be an active contender from the start and that in consequence the convention, like that of the republicans at Chicago, would have a big three running close together on the opening roll call. The possibility of such a development brought renewed claims of consistent gains from the supporters of Palmer and Cox and set the dark horses clamping impatiently as they recalled what happened to the big three at Chicago. The Palmer and Cox managers sought to discount the apparent significance of the McAdoo announcement which was made late last night, by National Committeeman Love of Texas, without saying whether he had any direct authorization from McAdoo. It was apparent, however, that many of the McAdoo workers who have been canvassing for votes without much organization or system, accepted the statement of Mr. Love at its face value. Among the best informed politicians, the general opinion was that it still was too early to forecast definitely what would happen.

Palmer and Cox Active

They suggested that the Love statement only put the technical situation back where it was when Mr. McAdoo announced recently that he did not care to be considered a candidate. At that time, both Attorney General Palmer and Governor Cox were active candidates and their supporters were claiming victory.

In the pre-convention scramble for delegates, many of those who had been McAdoo supporters promised to vote for other candidates, but the McAdoo leaders declared today that practically every one of these could be brought back into the fold.

Meredith for Second Place

There was frequent mention of Secretary Meredith of the agriculture department as a possible running mate for Mr. McAdoo. Mr. Meredith's presidential campaign headquarters were closed Saturday when he announced he was in no sense a candidate. Discussion of candidates manifestly still was subordinate in the minds of many of the delegates to the prohibition issue and they regarded the inevitable preliminaries of the opening session with impatience as they waited for the time when the differences of the wets and drys could be threshed out. It seemed a foregone conclusion that the question would be settled only after a stubborn fight on the floor, bringing into play the best oratorical and strategic fireworks of a typical democratic convention. The League of Nations and the Irish question also, though he was credited with announcing the candidacy of Senator Walsh for the resolutions chairmanship.

De Valera and Gompers Arrive

Eamon de Valera, "president of the Irish republic," arrived last night for his fight to obtain inclusion in the platform of a plank for recognition of the independence of Ireland.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, accompanied by Vice-President Joseph Valentine, William Green and Mathew Woll also reached here last night.

In the organization of the resolutions committee itself a fight was brewing, though it was not apparent how serious it might become. Senator Glass of Virginia chosen by the administration as its candidate for committee chairman was declared by his friends to be certain of election though a movement against him had been started by western delegates. The leader of the anti-Glass forces was Sen. Walsh of Montana, who supported the treaty reservations with the republicans. Those favoring him declared their fight was not an anti-administration movement and was based primarily on the fact that the northwest had not been accorded proper recognition in the convention. No one from that section, they declared, was on the state of convention officials or was prominently mentioned for either the presidency or the vice-presidency.

To Take Up Contests

Election of the resolutions committee, Senator Walsh predicted, would come later in the day and at the same time the newly formed credentials committee was to take up the Georgia and Missouri contests while the rules committee was determining on a list of permanent officers for the convention. Senator Roberts of Arkansas had been selected by the administration group for the permanent chairmanship and his endorsement by the committee seemed assured. Contrary to the expectations of many delegates, William J. Bryan was having little to say about the permanent organization of the convention and its committees. Busy with his fight to put a "dry plank" into the platform, he apparently was interposing no active opposition to the administration organization program by which to identify it.

As in more that one previous national convention, Mr. Bryan was looked upon as an unknown quantity which might turn out to be the deciding factor in almost any of the political equations now confusing the party leaders. No one professed to know what new and unexpected elements he might bring into play at the critical time. J. Bruce Kremer, of Montana, vice-chairman of the national committee, had been selected to call today's session to order and to present Chairman Cummings. At the conclusion of the keynote address of Mr. Cummings, all that remained to complete the day's program was to approve the selections for the various committee members already made by the state delegations.

BABY BOY LEFT ON STEPS OF PLEASANT STREET HOUSE

A baby boy, about four or five weeks old, was found on the steps of the home of Mrs. Mary Kennedy, 105 Pleasant street, about 10.30 o'clock Saturday night by John McGraw, who lives in the same house. It was taken to the Chelmsford Street hospital by Lieut. Ryan where it now awaits identification. The cries of the infant attracted Mr. McGraw who notified the police. There were no marks on the administration organization program by which to identify it.

SEIZE BRITISH GENERAL

Irish Republicans Also Take Two British Colonels—One Shot

BELFAST, June 28.—A general and two colonels living in a fishing hut three miles from Fermoy, County Cork, were taken prisoners Saturday at midnight and removed from the hut in a motor car belonging to the general.

One of the colonels attempted to escape, but was fired upon and wounded in the head and shoulders. The other colonel was liberated in order that he might attend to the wounded man.

The general was taken to an unknown destination.

The victims were Brig. Gen. Lucas and Col. Danford and Tyrrell, from the Clonmel barracks. They had just retired for the night after a day's fishing when a band of armed and masked men appeared and seized them in the name of "The Irish Republic." Col. Danford was seriously wounded after he jumped from the car.

DUBLIN, June 28.—The Great Northern railway, hitherto not affected, is now involved in the general boycott. Several of the employees of the road have been suspended for refusing to handle artillery.

The Mullaghmore Coast Guard station near Sligo was burned to the ground Saturday night.

BURNS PROVE FATAL

Dorothy Absay, daughter of Assad Absay of 33 Suffolk street, died yesterday afternoon at the Lowell Corporation hospital as a result of burns she sustained late Saturday afternoon. The child was amusing other children in a yard near her home by lighting pieces of paper with matches, when her clothing caught fire. Her cries attracted the attention of neighbors, who succeeded in putting out the flames, but not before the child had been terribly burned about the body. The ambulance took her to the hospital, where she passed away yesterday afternoon.

MEXICAN SAYS VILLA IS A COWARDLY BANDIT

EL PASO, Texas, June 28.—Honesty of purpose, co-operation of leaders of forces who have taken the field against him and good horses are all that is necessary to capture Pancho Villa, according to General Jose Gonzalo Escobar, who arrived at Juarez opposite here in search of the good horses. He stated that he had been well supplied with funds and would purchase 5,000 horses if he could find that number suitable for the rough work which would be required of them.

"I know Villa, and I am what you Americans call 'wise' to him," said General Escobar. "Villa is not the fearless hero he is thought by many people. On the contrary, he is only a cowardly bandit, who like a coyote skulks through the brush at night, taking advantage of others when the opportunity offers."

Two detachments of cavalry under General Almaraz, he continued, "will take part in the pursuit of Villa. The government now has in Chihuahua nearly 10,000 men to be used directly against the bandit. If it becomes necessary—which it will not—50,000 more will be sent to Chihuahua."

"This is a campaign of cavalry, however, and troops in large numbers will not be effective in gaining results against Villa. The pursuit can best be accomplished by small detachments of picked men, well horsed, who can get over the mountain rapidly."

Baldness Conquered

A veteran business man, who was almost completely bald and had tried tonics, lotions, shampoo, etc., in vain, came across an "Indiana" elixir by which he grew a complete crop of healthy hair by using Kotalko.

The hair elixir is called "KOTALKO." Others—men and women—have reported remarkable aid to hair growth, relief from dandruff, itching scalp, itching head, itching eyes, etc. The usual hair tonic, etc., are of no avail. It is a little to try Kotalko. It is a little to try Kotalko. It is a little to try Kotalko.

Wonderful results reported: For men, women's and children's hair. If you are bald, or losing hair, or have dandruff, you should try KOTALKO; it may be what you need for your scalp and in each case it is a pleasure to observe the starting of new hair and its steady increase until profuse growth. You may obtain a full box of genuine Kotalko at any drug store. Or a proof box will be mailed if you send 10 cents, silver or stamps, to John Hart British, Station F, New York, N. Y.

GOV. COOLIDGE HONORED

Principal Speaker at University of Vermont Commencement Exercises

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 28.—The American people were urged to accept the larger responsibility of a world of greater economic and political freedom and to employ their moral force in solving the problems of the future.

The degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon him.

"The conflicts of the past six years," he said, "have strengthened the determination of all America's people now as in the past to resist all aggression and support and defend her political institutions with whatever power as may be necessary for the preservation and maintenance of the larger liberties they bestow upon all her citizens."

"The unalterable inclination of the individual to preserve his heritage of larger liberty while tending to stabilize civic conditions has tended to change economic conditions. There has been a creation of new wealth and a vast redistribution of wealth as yet not fully realized and the effect of which has not yet been fully assessed. This readjustment has not been accomplished without strain, inconvenience and some suffering the end of which is not yet."

"It is absolutely impossible for the public to evade to shift the burden of meeting the cost of war and paying the public debt. This is our part of the price of victory. This has been and still is in some cases a range of artificially high prices which has not been caused by but has resulted in profiteering. There is but one remedy for this and that is increase of production. This is always the result of a long process and its application requires patience and forbearance."

"Having in mind solely the public welfare there is need of a larger revision of the benefits conferred by the collection of investment of capital not to the owner of capital but to the user of its products. The accumulation and investment of capital is the means of advance and comfort in modern civilization and whatever arrests, discourages, or prevents it turns toward barbarism. Capital and brains, investment and enterprise are not the enemies and masters of the wage earner but his friends and servants."

"We have been preaching and engaging in a great crusade. Its purpose has been to destroy despotism and preserve freedom. There has been a new birth of freedom. There has been a new expression to the rights of individuals, a new realization of its worth of man. All of this has set a standard of value on human service because it has given a new value to man. There has been a vast forward movement, the extent of which has not yet been fully appreciated."

"Greater liberty does not mean less responsibility. It means more responsibility. If America is to lead, her people must be true to her ancient ideals. The world has rejected a leadership sought to be imposed by force. The day of Washington and Lincoln has come. Leadership will henceforth not be by force but by service. No selfish interest whatever its source will long be allowed to interfere with progress."

"The American people desire progress and when they come, as come they must, to a comprehension that all kinds of selfishness and tyranny interfere with it they will discard their advocates as they discarded the leadership of toyism, nullification and secession. Whether we seize the opportunity to lead in a great advance depends solely on ourselves. We have the resources, the power, the material force. The only question is the moral force. What leadership shall we follow? We have come through adversity. Can we bear prosperity?"

The university graduated a class of 125 and conferred honorary degrees on the following in addition to Governor Coolidge:

Doctor of laws—Ralph Aldace Stewart of Boston and Edward Gleason Spaulding, president of philosophy, at Princeton.

Doctor of divinity—Rev. Henry Jennings Kilburn and Rev. Isaac Chipman Smart of Burlington.

Doctor of letters—Bert Hodge Hill, head of the American Classical School at Athens.

Doctor of engineering—Charles Ezra Scribner of New York.

MAINE'S CENTENARY

Salute of 100 Guns, Ringing of Bells, Etc., Mark Official Opening of Celebration

PORTLAND, Me., June 28.—A general salute of 100 guns, the ringing of bells and blowing of whistles early today officially marked the opening of Maine's centenary celebration. Designated as "Music Festival day," it was given over to a program of musical attractions.

The consolidated bands of the state, artists and chorus members of the centennial festival aided Prof. William R. Chapman, founder and director of the annual Maine music festival, marched down Congress street under an evergreen arch of welcome erected at Longfellow square, to city hall. There the Maine Centennial march, written by Prof. Chapman, was sung.

More than 1000 school children were included in the centennial festival chorus, which with the combined bands and other musical organization gave a concert in a field off Brighton avenue this afternoon. An address by Gov. Milliken was on the program.

Daylight fireworks and another open air concert this evening conclude the day's events. Then ten days' celebration which continues through July 10, so far has had, ideal June weather.

SEN. HARDING TAKES A REST

PARITAN, N. J., June 28.—Refreshed and invigorated by his first period of relaxation in several months, Senator Warren G. Harding, republican presidential nominee, had before him a quiet and uneventful program today at the country club of Senator Joseph L. Frelinghuysen, where he and Mrs. Harding are residing. The only event planned for the day was a golf match this forenoon with Senators Frelinghuysen, Hale of Maine, and Kellogg of Minnesota. Senators Hale and Kellogg accompanied the Harding party here from Washington. The nominee expected to leave late this afternoon for Washington. The senator spent Sunday in attending church with Mrs. Harding and his hosts in the forenoon and automobile in the afternoon and resting quietly in the evening.

POPULATION OF STATE OF DELAWARE 223,003

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Delaware, first state whose total population has been announced in the 1920 census, had a growth of 20,631 or 10.2 per cent in the last ten years, making its total population 223,003, the census bureau reported today.

In the ten years ending with 1920, Delaware increased 17,578, or 5.5 per cent, with a total population of 202,322. Newcastle county contains more than half the population of the state, had an increase of 25,051 or 20.3 per cent., while the other two counties showed decreases. Wilmington, largest city in the state, made up 27,757 of the increase in Newcastle county, and jumped into the cities of the 100,000 class with a total population of 110,163, an increase of 28.0 per cent. over 1910.

Ten years ago Delaware was 47th in population among the states with about 56,000 more people than Wyoming and 121,000 more than Nevada, the two states with the smallest populations. In area Delaware ranks next to the smallest state, Rhode Island, and in 1910 had 103 inhabitants to the square mile, ranking as ninth state in that respect.

Other returns given out today included: Oklahoma City, Okla., 91,258; increase 27,053; or 42.1 per cent. Walla Walla, Wn., 15,503, decrease 3851, or 16.9 per cent. Newcastle county, Delaware, including Wilmington, 115,339; increase 25,051 or 20.3 per cent.

LONDON, June 28.—Great Britain has assumed no obligations to assist the Greeks in their operations against the Turkish nationalists, Premier Lloyd George stated in the house of commons today. The premier declared the nationalist army was reorganized as a combatant army subject to the laws of war.

BAY STATE DELEGATES

Reach Frisco—Pledge Walsh Solid Support—O'Sullivan Slated for Vice-Chairman

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—The Massachusetts delegation came into San Francisco yesterday morning with a determination to give Senator Walsh its solid support in every battle in which he engages during the coming week. The delegates gave him this message when the special train rolled into the Southern Pacific station, where the senator had been awaiting them for nearly two hours.

"We are yours to do what you want," declared Delegate James T. Donovan of Lawrence, as the two clasped hands and a rousing cheer from the delegates and alternates who pressed around gave indorsement of Donovan's words.

Senator Walsh headed the delegation toward the headquarters at the Hotel Stewart. Although most of the delegates wanted a hot shower bath most of all, after their solid week on the train, they allowed that important duty to wait while the majority went in a body to the Paulist church for mass.

After an afternoon spent in sight-seeing, the delegation met at the Stewart at 6 o'clock to attend the dinner given in their honor by members of the big four—Senator Walsh, Richard H. Long, Dist. Atty. Pelletier and Daniel Coakley.

At 8 o'clock (midnight Boston time) the delegates went into executive session to nominate a national committee-man for the next four years and to name the Massachusetts members of the various committees.

Humphrey O'Sullivan of Lowell was scheduled for the honor of vice-chairman of the convention. Other committee posts to be filled are those on rules and permanent organization, to notify the presidential nominee and to notify the vice-presidential nominee.

IMPROVEMENT IN R. R. STRIKE SITUATION

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—General Improvement was indicated today in the trainmen's strike situation according to a statement issued by the Pennsylvania railway. Many of the shopmen who struck Saturday returned and the force is now 91 per cent. of the maximum.

The strikers say they are concentrating on an effort to bring out passenger trainmen, shopmen, telegraphers and other classes of employees. They say there are 58,000 of these workers and they hope to induce them to join the strike tomorrow.

Further Disturbances in and Around Ancona, Italy—Many Killed

Barracks Attacked at Pisa—Plot to Overturn Social Order Throughout Country

ROME, June 27.—Further disturbances in and around Ancona are reported in despatches from that city today. Anarchists are concentrating around the labor bureau in Ancona and despatches indicate they have a machine gun. Several have been killed in encounters with policemen. An attack was made upon the carabinieri barracks and a number of hand grenades were thrown, but the anarchists were unable to enter. Reinforcements rushed to the scene were met with shots from neighboring houses and it is said women participated in the fighting.

Two trains were attacked near Borgoccio. On one train, eight passengers were wounded and five of them subsequently died. The other train was carrying police, of whom four were wounded and one killed. A destroyer has arrived at Ancona with reinforcements for the troops there.

Barracks Attacked
PISA, Italy, June 28.—Barracks were attacked here yesterday, but the assailants were repulsed. The rioters built barricades in the streets and pillaged liquor and clothing stores until order was restored by reinforcements to the garrison. Two of the rioters were killed and many have been arrested. There were a number of casualties among the police and soldiers.

MELOY LOWEST BIDDER ON BRIDGE JOB

Frederick F. Meloy of this city, was found to be the lowest bidder for the construction of a reinforced concrete bridge replacing the present bridge in Lawrence street, over the Concord river, when bids were opened this afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the office of the street department. Mr. Meloy's bid was $69,789. Two other bids were also received; one from the Cross & Robert Co. of Boston, estimated the cost of the work at $70,650, while the Donnelly Iron Works, Inc., of Lowell, entered a bid of $76,166. The terms of the bids called for the entire construction of the bridge in accordance with plans and specifications prepared by the city authorities. Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy will probably bring the matter to the attention of the municipal council at its regular meeting tomorrow.

2000 Prisoners of War Drowned When Bolshevik Steamer Was Sunk

LONDON, June 28.—Two thousand British, Austrian, German and Finnish prisoners of war were drowned when a Bolshevik steamer was sunk recently in the Neva river, according to a Bolshevik dispatch to the Central News. A Reuters report from Stockholm would seem to confirm this dispatch, saying that a ship was sunk on the 6th of June with 2000 repatriated prisoners on board. It, however, does not mention any loss of life.

Dryer in Rubber Plant at Pottstown, Pa., Exploded—Third Man Fatally Injured

POTTSTOWN, Pa., June 28.—William C. Walsh, 33 years old, president and general manager of the Vulcanoid Tire and Rubber company and James A. Maney, 32, general superintendent, were killed early today by the explosion of a dryer.

Frank Walsh, the president's brother, lost an arm and suffered other injuries which may prove fatal. Fumes had been troubling workmen for some days and the three men went to the factory ahead of the day force to work on machinery designed to remove the fumes.

When the door of an overheated dryer was opened flames shot forth and ignited gases, causing the explosion. Walsh was formerly connected with the National Rubber company. He came here from Chicopee Falls, Mass., to establish a new business. The factory had just been completed.

Maney was a veteran of the British army, having served five years overseas.

CONFIDENT GLASS WILL BE MADE CHAIRMAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 28.—Confidence that Senator Glass of Virginia had more than enough votes to elect him chairman of the resolutions committee was expressed today by his managers following work lasting until an early hour today.

"We have several votes to spare," said Senator Harrison of Mississippi, who has been active in support of the Virginia senator.

Friends of Sen. Walsh of Montana brought out in opposition to Senator Glass, would not concede the Virginian's lead, however, and still claimed a majority.

The resolutions committee was to meet soon after adjournment of today's convention session and both factions in the chairmanship contest agreed that the issue would be settled quickly.

Convention to Adjourn After Keynote Speech and Naming of Committees

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Opposing forces in the national convention declared a brief truce today when they assembled in the opening session to perfect preliminaries for the week's work.

The big fight over prohibition and the lesser rights over the League of Nations and the Irish questions were laid aside but not forgotten while the party chiefs and delegates met in the auditorium to hear National Chairman Cummings sound the keynote to which they hope to hear the country respond.

More than ten hundred delegates and more than 12,000 alternates and spectators jammed into the big convention hall for the spectacle of a great national convention getting under way.

News of the Churches

The usual services were carried out in the various local Catholic churches yesterday. Next Friday, the first Friday of the month, will be observed with special masses in the morning and holy hour services in the evening. Confessions will be heard Thursday afternoon and evening.

A collection for the Indian and negro missions was taken up at all the masses yesterday. Many of the churches will begin their summer schedule of Sunday services next week, that is, having the parish mass, a low mass instead of high mass as has been the custom through the winter and spring months.

St. Peter's
At the 5:30 o'clock mass at St. Peter's church yesterday members of the Children of Mary sodality received communion in a body. Rev. Francis L. Shea was the celebrant and Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan assisted in giving communion. Rev. Peter T. Linehan sang the late mass and Rev. Fr. Heffernan was the preacher. Masses on Friday will be at 6 and 7 o'clock.

St. Patrick's
A large number of the faithful received communion at the 7 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church yesterday, celebrated by the pastor, Monsignor O'Brien. At the 11 o'clock mass the graduates of the parish school were awarded diplomas. Masses on Friday will be at the usual first Friday hours and confessions will be heard Thursday afternoon and evening.

Sacred Heart
Members of the Children of Mary sodality received communion in a body at the early mass at the Sacred Heart church yesterday. Rev. William Mahan, O. M. I., was the celebrant and Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. I., the pastor, assisted in giving communion. Rev. Thomas J. Coffey, O. M. I., of Boston, sang the high mass and Rev. Fr. Mahan, O. M. I., preached the sermon. Masses on Friday will be at 5, 6, 7 and 8 o'clock.

St. Michael's
Rev. Thomas J. Heagney sang the high mass at St. Michael's church yesterday and Rev. James F. Lynch delivered the sermon. Masses on Friday will be at 5:15 and 7 o'clock and evening devotions will be at 7:30.

Immaculate Conception
The usual order of services was carried out with large numbers of the faithful out at the Immaculate Conception church yesterday. The annual military mass of the O. M. I. Cadets was celebrated at 9 o'clock. First Friday services will be held at the usual hours.

AMERICAN COLLEGE OF SURGEONS

The Massachusetts representatives of the American College of Surgeons met in Boston yesterday to consider plans for the organization of a state clinical meeting to be held in Massachusetts some time during the current year.

The following executive committee was elected to have charge of the forthcoming meetings:
Chairman, Frederick J. Cotton, Dorrington; secretary, Charles P. Palmer, Boston; counselors, R. H. Seelye, Springfield; E. L. Hunt, Worcester; S. W. Goodard, Brockton.

This meeting contemplates the holding of clinics in the local hospitals of the city in which the meeting is to be held, afternoon meetings for the day conducted by speakers of note, and evening sessions where papers relating to the science of surgery will be read and discussed. This will bring to a new type of medical meeting to the state—one in which the public will learn how their right to receive expert surgical care is protected.

The American college of surgeons is an organization which contains on its fellowship roll the names of over 4000 surgeons in the United States and Canada, founded to give the highest type of surgery to every man, woman and child in need of it. The college has fostered the standardization of hospitals and maintains a staff of representatives in the field, visiting hospitals in all parts of the United States and Canada.

Following are the state representatives of the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons:

Charles L. Souder, Boston; Robert F. Hovey, Springfield; Walter Clark Seelye, Worcester; George E. May, Newton Centre; J. Emmons Briggs, Boston; Lincoln Davis, Boston; Chas. P. Palmer, Boston; Charles A. Porter, Boston; Samuel W. Goddard, Brockton; Harris P. Mosher, Boston; Martin M. Brown, North Adams; Homer Gage, Worcester; G. Forrest Martin, Lowell; Henry O. Marry, Jr., Newton; Frederic J. Cotton, Boston; Fred Bates Lund, Boston; and Augustus W. Du Fall River.

diplomas at the commencement exercises which were held in Associate hall yesterday afternoon. The exercises were attended by a large number of relatives and friends of the pupils who, at the close of the program, warmly congratulated the graduates and the teachers for the success achieved during the year.

The speaker at the exercises was the principal of the school, Mrs. Agathe Papazoglou, who in the course of her remarks, said it was gratifying to the community to be able to send out to the high school a class of 15 pupils, and she said she hoped that number would be doubled before many years.

Present at the exercises were Christos Ziozios and Demetrios S. Athanasioulas, president and secretary of the community; Harry Houpis, chairman of the school board, and the other officers of the community as well as the teachers of the school, including Theodoros Kanaivos, Phyllis Kyritsis, Miss Bridget O'Connell and Miss Florence L. Shanahan.

MATRIMONIAL

Woodlee—Lounge

Mr. Arthur Frederick Woodlee, a member of the Sun staff and formerly Lieutenant instructor of gunnery in the United States air service, and Miss Lillian Lounge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lounge, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in South Chelmsford Saturday evening at 7 o'clock.

Rev. G. F. Camp, pastor of the North Tewksbury Baptist church, performed the ceremony. The wide acquaintance enjoyed by the principals made the affair of more than ordinary interest and a large number of friends were present at both the ceremony and reception which followed. The double ring service was used. The bride presented a most attractive appearance in a dress of white satin, trimmed with Chantilly lace. She wore a white tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bride roses and a shower of sweet peas. Miss Lillian Lounge, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore orchid chiffon with tulle and veil and carried Ophelia roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Barbara E. Martin, who wore pink charmuse with shadow lace and carried Killarney roses, and Miss Marion Lounge, a sister of the bride, who wore blue satin and Chantilly lace and carried Ward roses. Miss Dorothy Coburn, a niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. Miss Coburn presented a pretty appearance in pink organdie and carried pink rose buds. The best man was Lieut. Frank O. Stephens of the 36th Infantry, stationed at Camp Devens. Mr. Richard Braubrook Walsh and Mr. Everett Lounge, a brother of the bride, were the ushers. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was beautifully decorated with laurel and evergreen. Mrs. Frank Thompson of Worcester played the wedding music and there was orchestral music during the reception. In the receiving line besides the bride and bridegroom were Mr. and Mrs. Lounge and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woodlee, parents of the bridegroom. The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. They left during the evening for a wedding trip of about two weeks. After September 1 they will be at home at 569 Westford street.

WILL PREVENT REVIVAL OF
GERMAN MILITARISM

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Official advisers received here state that the allied military control commission with Marshal Foch as its supreme directing head ex-officio, constitutes now the keynote of allied relations with Germany. It is declared that so long as the commission continues to function, revival of German militarism is impossible.

According to these advisers, the military control commission exceeds in importance even the reparations commission since former President Poincaré resigned from the reparations body because the allies had decided to limit its authority and since the naval and air commissions have been relegated to positions of secondary importance.

Presided over by General Nollet of the French army with headquarters in Berlin and reporting to Marshal Foch, the commission, in addition to its supervision of German disarmament, has taken an active interest in the political-military developments in Germany. Reports of the recrudescence of Prussian militarism in East Prussia and Pomerania first emanated from reports of the commission to the supreme council.

A sub-committee of the commission was sent into the Ruhr district for investigation under command of the French major, Graff, and it was the report of this mission to official advisers which formed the basis for French contentions at San Remo of German duplicity.

The work of the commission is divided into two general subjects, effectives and armaments. The sub-committee devoted to the subject of effectives is concerned with the size and organization of the German army while the sub-committee on armaments is concerned chiefly with maintaining a proper reduction of stocks of guns and ammunition in Germany.

No place in Germany is exempt from investigation by representatives of these committees as authority of the supreme council in the past has been invoked several times to obtain execution of the commission's demands.

The two sub-committees, in an effort to maintain strict police over potential German militarism, have organized numerous agents into district sub-committees throughout Germany. Such district committees on effectives are presided over by French officers in Pomerania and Schleswig, East Prussia, Bavaria, and Silesia; by British, in Berlin and Saxony; by an Italian in Baden and Württemberg; and a Belgian in Westphalia and Hanover. Similarly, sub-committees on armaments have as their heads, French officers in Pomerania and Schleswig, Frankfurt, Hanover, Cologne, and Silesia; Italian, in Berlin and Bavaria; and Belgian in Baden and Württemberg.

The work of these committees consists chiefly in visiting garrisons, supply depots, military schools, and training camps, in sending out agents to make inquiries and incidentally, in keeping in touch with the political-military tide of affairs.

ANNUAL MILITARY MASS FOR O. M. I. CADETS

A congregation in which every parish of the city and many outside the city were represented attended the annual military mass of the O.M.I. Cadets held yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at the immaculate Conception church and, as usual, the occasion proved one of the most impressive in the year's calendar of local Catholic affairs.

The edifice was brilliantly illuminated and the patriotic theme everywhere predominated in the decorations from the red, white and blue bunting and silk American flags to the floral adornments that reached a climax in a large bouquet of the national colors centered on the altar.

Members of the cadets, led by the O.M.I. Cadet life and drum corps in charge of Robert Lohm and Joseph Wedge, together with a large number of service men, former members of the organization, left the armory in East Merrimack street shortly before 9 o'clock and marched to the church where they occupied reserved seats in the center aisle. As the soldiers entered the church the organ played "Onward Christian Soldiers" and cornet accompanists added materially to the military aspect of the occasion.

Rev. William W. Noonan, O.M.I., recently ordained to the priesthood and who is a former member of the cadets, celebrated the mass and also preached the sermon. He urged his listeners to remember always the principles taught them as members of the cadets under the direction of their spiritual leader, Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O.M.I. If they maintained their true love for God they could not help being good cadets and good citizens, he said.

During the mass there was assembly singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Our Lady of Victory," with Patrick Sullivan and Thomas McKenna sustaining the solos in the latter number. "Lead Kindly, Light" was sung by a sextet composed of Frank O'Brien, John O'Brien, Charles McGovern, Thomas McKenna, Patrick

Sullivan and Fred Farrell. Mrs. Hugh Walker was the organist.

In accordance with traditional custom, the cadets received communion at the mass, Rev. Fr. Noonan, O.M.I., being assisted by Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O.M.I., and Rev. James B. McCarlin, O.M.I., in giving communion (Capt. John V. Flannagan and Capt. William Dooley were the altar boys. As the cadets marched from the church the organist played "America United," a composition by Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O.M.I. Later in the forenoon a breakfast was served in the armory by Caterer Lydon.

Present at the mass were all the former colonels of the organization, including Messrs. Harrington, Haggerty, Conroy, Boyd and Halla, Bernard F. McArdle, former drill instructor, was also present.

Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O.M.I., was assisted in carrying out the arrangements by Col. Alfred Burns and Military Instructor Francis Gargan.

PASTOR CONDEMNS G. O. P. PLATFORM

The republican platform was condemned as being destructive and not constructive by Rev. Karl P. Meister in a sermon last evening at the Centralville M.E. church. The speaker offered particular objection to the plank dealing with prohibition, woman's suffrage and labor matters. He said that the platform was framed with the sole purpose of helping to defeat the opposition.

Mr. Meister said that he is personally acquainted with Senator Harding, having been born in Marion, Ohio, the senator's home town, and that he had spent his boyhood days in California when the senator was a resident there.

The speaker compared Mr. Harding to McKinley and said that he thought he was the strongest man that the republicans could have selected and that if elected he would prove fully capable of managing the affairs of the country. He said that he would be able to carry congress with him in legislative matters because of his qualities of personal likableness. He said that the senator had shown exceptional qualities for leadership even in his youth.

DIPLOMAS ARE AWARDED

Annual Award of Diplomas to Graduates of St. Patrick's Parochial School

The usual impressive services marked the annual award of diplomas to graduates of the commercial department and grammar grades of St. Patrick's parochial school at the high mass at St. Patrick's church yesterday morning. A congregation that filled the church witnessed the ceremony.

Rev. Joseph A. Curtin celebrated the mass and the diplomas were presented by the pastor, Right Rev. William O'Brien, P. R. Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., preached the sermon.

The graduates were seated in the center aisle and just before the sermon marched to the altar where the pastor presented them their diplomas and certificates of advancement. He was assisted by Rev. Brother Nilus, C. P. N., superior of the school.

Rev. Dr. Supple preached a strong sermon from the text found in Matthew: "Go Teach All Nations." This, the preacher said, was the commission given the church to teach. How well she fulfilled that mission in ages past was reviewed, showing that the church stood for the promotion of learning, was the patroness of art and science, and particularly devoted her energies through her missionaries, her saints and her scholars to the dissemination of the great truths of salvation. The things that concern the soul, the spiritual life and the service of God, are foremost in the church's zeal as a teacher of men and nations, he said.

With secular education she links religious so that the moral nature of her children may be developed as well as the intellectual qualities. The works of the church in the care and instruction of her followers is especially seen in her devotion to little children. As Christ loved little children, so the church throws the mantle of her care and grace over them. First at the baptismal font and follows them with her guidance and administrations until they are laid away in the grave consecrated by her power.

The church teaches the children respect for authority, Dr. Supple continued, reverence for the sacred things of God, honesty, integrity and purity; in fact, the strict compliance with the commands of God, and urges an exemplification of all Christian virtues in their lives after they have passed out into the bustling world. It was his wish and prayer that these graduates, leaving St. Patrick's school, should ever remember the eternal truths impressed upon their minds by the zealous teachers of the Navean brotherhood and by the Sisters of Notre Dame. He hoped that their lives might be such as to bring glory to God and reflect credit upon themselves and their devoted teachers.

WOMEN AT CONVENTION

Oklahoma Woman, Mother of Six Among Delegates—Husband G. O. P. Delegate

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Mrs. William H. England, of Oklahoma, Vassar graduate and mother of six children, is one of more than 300 women who are delegates to the democratic national convention which opens here June 28. Her husband was a delegate to the republican national convention at Chicago this month.

Among the other Oklahoma delegates are two women who trace their ancestry to Indian chieftains. They are Mrs. Richard L. Fife, wife of a physician, formerly of Georgia and grandniece of Sequoyah, inventor of the Cherokee alphabet; and Mrs. Eugene B. Lawson, wife of an attorney and oil man and daughter of the Rev. Charles Johnnycake, last chief of the Delaware. Mrs. Fife was first chairman of the woman's democratic club of Oklahoma; Mrs. Lawson was formerly president of the Oklahoma Federation of Women's Clubs and both were prominent in war work.

Miss Laura Clay, delegate-at-large from Kentucky, was one of the organizers of the Kentucky Equal Rights association in 1838 and is reputed to be a "practical farmer."

Miss Elizabeth Marbury, delegate-at-large from New York, who was decorated by the United States, France, Belgium and Italy for war work, is first vice-president of the League of Catholic Women. She came to the convention with Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby, "mother of New York women democrats." In a special train from New York that carried 54 women delegates and alternates.

Texas sent a nationally known figure in Mrs. Percy Pennybacker, club leader. One of the best known of California's eight delegates is Miss Mary E. Foy, who has been identified with many phases of civic betterment work. Mrs. John W. Troy, of Alaska, was the first woman delegate to arrive here.

Seventeen women, headed by Mrs. Joseph Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, have been appointed by Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the democratic national committee, as members of the executive committee of 34.

Mrs. George Ross, first chairman of the Women's Bureau of the Democratic National Committee, and Mrs. Mary Holland Kinkaid, assistant director of publicity, in charge of women's activity, are among the leaders here. Mrs. Ross is a Chicago civic worker and had charge of the 1916 democratic presidential campaign in 12 western equal suffrage states, 10 of which cast their electoral vote for Wilson.

VIOLIN RECITAL BY WOESSNER'S PUPILS

The pupils of Mr. Woessner gave an interesting program of violin solos and ensemble numbers to a large audience in Colonial hall on Sunday afternoon. The playing of the Andante from Concerto No. 2, by De Beriot, by Mr. Paterson, was greatly enjoyed, and also the concerto by Anselmy, played by Sam Yafer. Margaret Goggin and Joseph Lawrence deserve special mention for the playing of Concerto No. 1.

FORMER LOWELL PASTOR PREACHES

Rev. W. A. Bartlett, a former Lowell pastor, was the preacher at the First Baptist church at both services yesterday in the absence of the regular pastor. In the audience at both services were a number of the former parishioners of Kirk Street church.

The subject of the morning sermon was "A Man Greatly Beloved," the text being from Daniel X-11. The character of the prophet was analyzed and he was praised for his loyalty to home training and courage in sticking by his convictions. The speaker said that people today were too much concerned about what other people would think of them and not about what God would think of them.

"A Providential Interruption" was the subject of the evening address. The story of the woman who touched the hem of Jesus' garments and was healed of her infirmities was taken by the speaker as a starting point for his discourse. He spoke especially of the un-

CELEBRATED HIS FIRST MASS YESTERDAY

Rev. Leandre Lirette, S.M.M., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lirette of 817 Merrimack street, this city, who was ordained to the priesthood May 23 at the Ottawa cathedral, celebrated his first mass at St. Jean Baptiste church yesterday at 11 o'clock. He was assisted by his cousin, Rev. Roscoe Moisan of Framingham as deacon and Rev. Rosario Jalbert, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. During the mass appropriate music was rendered by an augmented choir under the direction of L. N. Guilbault, who also presided at the organ. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Antoine A. Amyot, O.M.I., an old friend of the family.

At the close of the mass the young clergyman was entertained at dinner at the home of his parents and guests at the festivities were about 100 guests among whom were Rev. Fr. Amyot, O.M.I., Rev. Fr. Moisan and the following (from out of town): Rev. Fr. Pierre Joly, Manitoaba; Rev. Fr. Louis Girard, Mrs. Ferdinand Lirette and her son, Ferdinand, Jr., Mrs. Rosanna Bedard, Mrs. Francis Moisan, all of St. Raymond, Que., Charles and Henri Lirette of Albertville; Mr. and Mrs. Leandre Moisan and their son, Rosario of Salem.

Rev. Fr. Lirette is the fourth member of his family to enter a religious order, the others being Rev. Fr. Pierre Joly, Manitoaba; Rev. Fr. Sister Elizabeth, Rev. Sister St. Francis and Rev. Sister St. Charles, all of the Sisters of St. Joseph and all located at Eureka, Cal. He was born in this city 27 years ago and received his early education at St. Joseph's college. He completed his classical studies at the seminary of Epiphanyville, Que., and his theological studies at the Scholastic of Youngview Centre, near Ottawa.

The young clergyman celebrated the 7 o'clock mass this morning and this noon he was entertained at luncheon at the home of a brother, Theophile Lirette in Peabody street. He will remain in Lowell about six weeks after which he will return to Ottawa, whence he will be assigned to missionary work.

Order Your Coal Early
Continued

Fuel deliveries will be slow and in small quantities.

Mr. Storrow points out that the railroads cannot bring into New England anything like the quantities of coal that are required and that, in fact, they are finding it difficult to move enough coal to meet their own requirements. None of the New England roads has more than a limited supply on hand.

Disregard Price
Mr. Storrow advises prospective purchasers to buy now even if they are obliged to pay several dollars more per ton for their coal in order to secure quick delivery by water.

Some local users of coal are inquiring where the extra expense of several dollars a ton for coal is to go. They say that it has been commonly supposed that water borne coal would be cheaper than fuel brought in by the railroads as water transportation has been considered much cheaper than the cost of carrying the commodity over the rail lines. They are also inquiring as to what guarantee they will have, if the extra cost is to be absorbed by the coal producers or their representatives, that consumers from other parts of the country will not step in and bid the prices up still further.

The official order giving preference to the use of cars for bringing coal into New England has not met the opposition of injunction proceedings in the courts, that it was thought might be instituted by the mine operators, but it has not yet resulted in the arrival of any considerable quantities of coal in Lowell.

The quantity of coal on hand in the various industries of the city, it is asserted, cannot be even approximately estimated. It is known, though, that practically all of the big mills are operating more or less on a hand-to-mouth basis, and that very little in the way of a surplus for winter use is being provided.

Close to the Mark
Both the Northeastern and the Eastern Massachusetts street railways are running very close to the empty-coal bin mark. Neither of them has a supply sufficient to last more than a short time, and with supplies continuing in dribbles it is a problem how the roads are to be carried through the winter.

In the matter of anthracite coal for home use, the situation is not much better than the bituminous field. Home uses that are commonly filled or in the process of being filled, at this season of the year are empty and the prospect of placing an adequate supply in all of them does not appear bright.

At last accounts there was less than 1000 tons of anthracite coal on hand in the yards of the city and very little additional coal has been arriving from day to day.

People familiar with the situation say that the people generally do not seem to be worrying very much about how they are to keep their homes warm next winter. They have heard the cry of coal famine so often, it is said, that they are not much frightened when it is raised again and for the present they are willing to let George or someone else do the worrying.

OUR FILTRATION PLANT'S ALL RIGHT
None of the filtration plants which commissioner John F. Salmon had an opportunity to see during his visit to Canada last week when he attended the 40th annual convention of the American Water Works association comes up to the Lowell plant in the production of clean, clear water at a minimum expense, the commissioner said today. Mr. Salmon had a chance to inspect many of the plants in and around Montreal but found none that equalled the local system.

SHORTHAND CLASS FOR CLUB GIRLS

As usual, the shorthand class of Miss Alice Cox for girls of the Community club will be held next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the club rooms in the Rutland building. All other classes have been discontinued for the summer season.

Beginning with the first of July, the directors of the girls' community club will arrange vacation parties for the camp at the Riverhurst farmhouse on the Billerica car line. At the present time the camp is used for only a day or two at a time, but after next month parties for a week or more will be planned.

Eugene McCarty Dead

bruises about the body, while Stack is suffering from fractures of the skull, collar bone, right arm and right leg, and severe cuts about the face.

The accident occurred at about 11:30 o'clock, the car being in charge of Fred L. Mason. According to the story given by the police, the car was being operated at a fair rate of speed and when nearing the bend at the parkway, the operator saw two men going arm in arm diagonally across the street. The operator claims he sounded his gong and the two men slowed down as if to let the car go by, but later attempted to cross in front of the electric. Mason reversed the power but was not able to bring his car to a stop before striking the two men.

One of the witnesses of the accident stated this morning that the car was coming down Merrimack street at a pretty fast clip when it struck the two men, throwing McCarthy to one side and dragging Stack along to a point just opposite the Merrimack Clothing company before it was brought to a stop. It was noticed that the motor in the car was smoking, and on inquiry it was learned that the operator had to cut the switch in order to stop his car. He said the men and rang his gong, but the noise of the one-man cars when going along at a good rate of speed invariably drowns out the gong and it is not to be wondered that the two men who were engaged in conversation did not hear the gong. A passing automobile took McCarthy to the Lowell Corporation hospital, while it was some 10 minutes before the ambulance responded for the unfortunate Mr. Stack, who laid on the road, a sorrowful spectacle. His face was a gruesome sight, battered beyond recognition and when the ambulance did come, minus a doctor, it was necessary that the driver administer first aid. The injured man was bandaged up and then rushed to St. John's.

After the accident Operator Mason said he was going along at a rate of speed consistent with public safety, but some of those who were on Merrimack street said that the car was going too fast for public safety. McCarthy passed away at the Lowell Corporation hospital shortly after 2:30 o'clock this morning, and the body was later viewed by Medical Examiner T. B. Smith.

It is understood that McCarthy had been a resident of this city only a short time. His address was given as 370 Merrimack street.

BIRDMAN TOOK CHANCES
Drove Plane Nose First Into Sand to Save Woman's Life

Risking his own life and that of a passenger, the pilot of one of the aeroplanes which were steadily employed yesterday at Salisbury beach giving rides in the air for $1 a minute, drove his plane nose first into the sand, splintering the propeller, and saving a woman who dashed into the path of the machine alighting on the beach.

The plane is the property of the American Aerial Service company of Boston and was just alighting after giving a passenger a ten-minute ride and skimming along the beach when the woman dashed into the path. The pilot, on approaching the woman, drove the aeroplane into the air just high enough to clear her head, but did not have power enough to continue the flight and so it dashed to the ground. Fortunately no one was injured.

The long level shore of the beach was used as a base of operations for the planes and the pilots were kept busy all afternoon. For $15 the pilots would take a passenger through the loop-the-loop and side turn and nose spin and for $20 would do all the tricks they knew.

A general renovation of the doors of the local fire houses is under way under the direction of the public property department. All the doors are being repainted and crevices filled with putty. In the past, when the windows over or near the doors had been washed, the water has leaked down onto the entrances and has had a tendency to rot the wood. By treating them with putty, Commissioner Marchand hopes to preserve the wood.

Employees of the department began painting the interior of the Green school today and will go over it from top to bottom. The Edison and Butler schools will also be painted during the summer vacation.

WAS KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN
George F. Portneuf, aged about 30 years, a former service man residing at 161 Middlesex street, was run over and killed by a freight train at the Fletcher and Dutton streets crossing, late Saturday afternoon. According to witnesses of the accident, Portneuf stepped around the gates and attempted to cross over on bumpers between the cars when the train stopped. When the train started up suddenly, he was thrown to the tracks, where he was crushed beneath the wheels. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell and Sons. He was a nephew of the late Mrs. John H. Clark of this city.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

James R. Blackstock was arraigned in police court today, and pleaded not guilty to drunkenness and operating a motorcycle while under the influence of liquor. He was found guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $10 on the former complaint, and sentenced to one month in the house of correction on the latter. An appeal was entered and he was ordered under bonds of $300 for the superior court.

Carl Castor, aged 18, pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and larceny and was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory. The complaint was made by Officer Ryne, who said that Castor stole his revolver from the bathroom on the boulevard.

John Wislowles, Walter Naumi, Walter Balouna, Dominick Lakoski and Adam Fiorelli were fined $3 each for being present at a card game on the Lord's day, in Howard street. A complaint was made at the police station by a neighbor that he could not sleep Saturday night, because of the noise the men were making and when the gambling continued into the early hours of Sunday, Officer Conroy made the arrests.

John Mendonca, Joseph Perry, Servulo Parinka and Manuel Pimental were each fined $10 for gaming on the Lord's day. They were arrested early Sunday morning, in a house on Charles street.

John B. Curtis, aged 17, Edwin D. Shea, aged 17, and William Hassell, aged 15, all of Cambridge, were granted a continuance until Friday without entering a plea on the charge of breaking, entering and larceny from a camp on the Concord river in Billerica. They were arrested Saturday night by Constables Livingston, O'Brien, Cassins and White of Billerica.

Adelard St. Jean pleaded not guilty to the larceny of a cake valued at $3. Inasmuch as the complainant stated that she would be satisfied with the return of the cake the court ordered the defendant under bonds of $200 till next Wednesday. The complainant refused to accept the monetary value of the cake and it happened that defendant didn't have the cake with him. The problem was solved when the complainant demanded that another one be made and when St. Jean stated that he had a sister who is a very good cook, the complainant allowed that a cake cooked by defendant's sister would be acceptable.

Thomas Connolly who was arrested about one week ago for drunkenness and given continuance until today to make restitution to Officer Boyle for damaging his uniform, reported this morning that he had made satisfactory settlement with the officer and was released.

James Maguire pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was given two weeks to pay a fine of $10.

GAVE SONG RECITAL AT COLONIAL HALL
Miss Lela Fotiades of the conservatory of music of Paris gave a delightful song recital at the Colonial hall, Middle street Saturday evening. The talented singer was assisted by Miss Ethel Hutchinson of Boston, a pianist of rare ability and the program they rendered was highly appreciated by the large audience.

Since her arrival in this country from Australia Miss Fotiades has entertained large audiences in Boston and New York, while she has contributed largely to the Red Cross and taken an active part in the Liberty bond drive in various states of the union. The program was as follows:

Griseides Massenet
Miknan Thomas
A. T. Da Verdi
Laurie Me Enesco
The Lark Gluka-Balakirev
Tosca Puccini
Serenade Sinkels
Valse Caprice Ghebard
Souvenir de Smyrne Mossini

LOWELL FOURTH IN NAVY ENLISTMENTS
In the report of the number of enlistments for this district from the navy recruiting headquarters in Boston, Lowell took fourth place in the list for the week ending June 21. Springfield lead the list with 8, Worcester tied with 8, Lynn was third with 7 and Lowell fourth with 6.

In accordance with an order received some time ago Chief Crepeau and his assistants piloted his "receiving ship" from the office of the Governor block to a new port at 105 Central street today, where all future work, beginning tomorrow, will be done. The removal of the office was caused by the refusal of the government to pay the increase of rent demanded, which amounted to over a 100 per cent.

ADDITION TO THE OLD MANN SCHOOL
Inasmuch as the wooden addition which is to be erected on the present boys' vocational school building is Broadway is to be merely a temporary structure, Commissioner George E. Marchand is of the opinion that it can be built without causing a violation of the fire district laws.

There has been some criticism of the proposed intention to have the addition built of wood inasmuch as it is within the area set apart by a city ordinance which says that buildings in that area must be fireproof construction. However, Mr. Marchand says the building will probably be used only a year or two and for that reason he thinks there will be no objection to wooden construction. Plans have not yet been completed but it is expected that work will begin on the structure within a few weeks.

Big Revolutionary Plot
ROME, June 26.—Reports of disorders in widely separated parts of Italy appear to corroborate the impression that they are part of a deep scheme to overturn social order throughout the entire country.

At Cadore, Venetia, red flags have been hoisted on the municipal buildings. Telegraph lines have been cut and roads blocked with trees at Lozzo, Callazo and Domogre. Carabiniers in armored cars have dispersed rioters at Bribasso. At Roncole an aqueduct has been cut. Discontent which has long been held under restraint at Pombene has burst out, violently and soldiers and police are protecting the shops in this city. They have been attacked with revolvers and hand grenades and have replied with machine gun fire. Many on each side have been killed and wounded.

REPAIRING DOORS TO FIRE HOUSES

A general renovation of the doors of the local fire houses is under way under the direction of the public property department. All the doors are being repainted and crevices filled with putty. In the past, when the windows over or near the doors had been washed, the water has leaked down onto the entrances and has had a tendency to rot the wood. By treating them with putty, Commissioner Marchand hopes to preserve the wood.

Employees of the department began painting the interior of the Green school today and will go over it from top to bottom. The Edison and Butler schools will also be painted during the summer vacation.

WAS KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN
George F. Portneuf, aged about 30 years, a former service man residing at 161 Middlesex street, was run over and killed by a freight train at the Fletcher and Dutton streets crossing, late Saturday afternoon. According to witnesses of the accident, Portneuf stepped around the gates and attempted to cross over on bumpers between the cars when the train stopped. When the train started up suddenly, he was thrown to the tracks, where he was crushed beneath the wheels. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell and Sons. THE COAL SHORTAGE

That New England railroads are facing a possible suspension of business as a result of a coal shortage, is the statement made by Mr. Storror, of Boston, the fuel administrator of the state and a man who is not disposed to be an alarmist. He has fully investigated the prospects of securing a supply of coal for New England and his decision is based upon the actual conditions. "What is the cause of all this?" will be asked.

The cause, as Mr. Storror sees it, is very plain. He felt that he had authority from the Interstate Commerce commission to order priority of coal shipment for New England, but at a conference in New York, he found serious opposition to this plan and as a result it is held inoperative.

Thus the interests of New England are imperilled and not only the railroads may be obliged to cease running but textile and other industries on which the people depend for subsistence may be forced to shut down.

At the bottom of all this trouble is the "outlaw" railroad strike which has tied up thousands of cars of coal in docks and railroad yards as the regular railroad employes refuse to handle it. At the railroad piers in New York, Mr. Storror saw long trains of coal bound for New England, held up for weeks because of the switchmen's strike. Thus the situation is menacing unless relief comes soon.

Never in the history of the railroads in this country has the service been so woefully deficient as since the return of the roads to private ownership. Why is this?

By many American citizens who are familiar with the conditions, it is believed that there is an understanding among railroad men or some of them, to drive the roads back into government ownership. What's the result? Poor service, much worse indeed than could be brought about by the "outlaw" strike, which shows that some other agency is contributing to the delay and congestion in freight yards.

It is noticeable also that recently there are many train wrecks from causes that seem to indicate malicious action by somebody. This may be the work of anarchists, but if the strikes continue, and if a feeling of general dissatisfaction prevails, the railroad men will be blamed for the wrecks which have become so numerous.

These are very serious matters; but the public is watching and may soon make up its mind to put an end to a state of affairs that has become widely menacing to the people and the industries upon which they have to depend.

If the employes of the railroads carry this antagonistic policy much farther, it will be in order for the government not to take over the railroads—it will not do that—but to adopt a policy under which railroad strikes for any cause or pretext whatsoever, will be prohibited under severe penalties including jail sentences. The public must have some protection against the possibility of paralysis to the railroads and the industries of the country, by strikes of railroad employes.

If the railroad employes undertake to strike against the public safety and the maintenance of the industries necessary to the existence of the people, the power of the government will have to be exerted as it was in the Boston police strike, and a new order of things will be established in which no body of individuals, whether organized or otherwise, will be allowed to interfere with the paramount rights of the public.

SOUTH LOWELL GAR SERVICE

Nothing half so preposterous as the proposed discontinuance of the car service to South Lowell, has been brought to public attention for many a year. The public cannot force the Eastern Massachusetts company to run over a bridge that is unsafe. No sensible person would favor such a course, for the reason that it would endanger the lives of the passengers. But the plain duty of the officials concerned, is to determine the condition of the bridge forthwith through examination by competent experts. City Engineer Kearney, we understand, believes the bridge to be safe for ordinary car service whereas the company's engineer thinks it is unsafe.

If it is unsafe, then it is the duty of the city to have it made safe without delay.

It is proposed to build a new bridge. That is no reason why the service should be terminated at the present or any future time. If the old bridge needs to be strengthened in order to serve until such time as the construction work begins, let that be attended to at once.

During the construction of the new bridge, it might be feasible to keep one track open for cars even if a temporary bridge be necessary for the purpose.

If this cannot be done, then the street railway company will have to leave a sufficient number of cars on the south side of the bridge to provide conveyance daily for the employees of the U. S. Cartridge plant in South Lowell and for the public generally. The connection could be made by a footbridge.

To suspend the car service even temporarily should not be tolerated on any consideration short of calamity. The company is piling up large deficits against various districts in which it operates and its service in many respects is far short of being satisfactory. The company will not be allowed to make any unreasonable and arbitrary decision that would seriously handicap the work of an important industry. Its ultimatum against the jitneys was allowed. If it fails or refuses to accommodate the public the jitneys will soon be restored.

THE RELEASED "REDS"

There may be sound legal reasons for Judge Anderson's decision in the federal district court in Boston, releasing 17 alleged "Reds" from custody. Nevertheless, the average citizen will feel satisfaction in learning that the final opinion of the supreme court on the subject is to be obtained through an appeal to be made by the department of justice.

The trouble with Judge Anderson's opinion is—and all who would mollycoddle the "Reds" seem to have a similar viewpoint—that he fails to realize that the supreme law of nations as of individuals is that of self-preservation. The paramount duty of government is to protect itself.

When a man's life and property are menaced the law does not require him to be particularly nice in the choice of the weapons he uses for protection. If people prowl around in the vicinity where wild men are waving torches near a powder magazine, they can blame no one but themselves if they get hurt while the process of subduing the lunatics is going on.

Groups of communists, anarchists, and I. W. W.'s may be shrewd enough to technically keep their activities within lines drawn by the law, but it is well known that they are revolutionary bodies seeking the overthrow of the government by violence. They constitute a menace against which the state must protect itself.

HOUSING PROBLEMS

Some very sad cases come to light as a result of the great shortage of tenements. The newspapers have daily accounts of people driven to the most extreme state of desperation as a result of being forced to move out of their homes without having any place to move to except the street or the poorhouse. It is daily recorded that many families are homeless and dependent upon the good will of their neighbors and friends for temporary shelter. Some who have no friends, or who felt that they were friends, foolishly resorted to suicide to end their troubles.

It seems that the time has arrived when some agency should be organized to aid families who are thus left homeless so that they may not be permitted to suffer from want or obliged to sleep on the corners and parks. Any such body should report at least to Mayor Thompson that he may use his influence in helping them to find a home. It seems the Chamber of Commerce might do something in this line if it inaugurated a movement for the building of temporary dwellings to serve families who are evicted and left without a place in which they can stop over right. This situation is not quite so bad here as in other places perhaps, but judging from reports from different parts of the city, the house shortage is daily becoming more acute.

There are doubtless some people in Lowell, as in other places, who have sold their liberty bonds and possibly mortgaged their houses to buy oil stocks that they had been led to expect would double and triple in value almost overnight and which have ultimately turned out to be worthless. To such people it will be welcome news to learn that something like sixty persons have been indicted in New York for selling such wild cat securities, and that while the mills of justice are sometimes slow in getting into operation they often grind exceedingly small at the last.

All the suffragists and women voters yet to be are now looking hopefully to Tennessee. Chairman Cummings follows up the appeal of President Wilson with a strong letter to Governor Roberts of that state for a special session of the legislature to ratify the 19th amendment. The chances that the governor will do so are very encouraging.

A statement by the city collector of Boston, regarding the issuance of warrants for the arrest of delinquent poll tax payers, calls attention anew to the Springfield man in whose case the authorities found out, after putting him in jail for a similar cause, that there was no legal way provided for getting him out so long as the tax remained unpaid.

It is still a pretty difficult thing to punish a woman adequately for the crime of homicide. Eleanor Baker, sent to Worcester county jail for a year, after having pleaded guilty as accessory to the crime of murder, has been pardoned after serving a little more than six months of her sentence.

Robert Bruce and his spider have nothing for persistence on those young people of Billerica who, having been whipped to a frazzle on a proposition to legalize Sunday baseball at one town meeting, are going right on preparing to renew the warfare at the next gathering of the town's voters.

More confidence would be placed in the two to one betting in Wall street on Cox as the successful candidate at San Francisco, as a straw indicating the direction of the political wind, if six to one odds had not been offered there a short time ago that Wood would be the winner at Chicago.

The Harvard young man who, when asked the meaning of the word "veritas" on the college seal replied that he was not sure but he thought it meant "To h— with Yale," ought to be satisfied with the result of the annual New London boat race.

All Lowell will say Amen to the eulogies on the life and character of the late Judge Samuel P. Hadley uttered by the members of the local bar association. He was a loyal citizen, faithful friend, and a merciful and upright judge.

Judging from the expressions of a number of leading citizens, the engraving of a city-manager plan onto Lowell's charter would be about as popular as the former kaiser would be at a meeting of the American Legion.

The republican members of the Manchester, N. H., board of aldermen have asked democratic Mayor Verette to resign. The mayor might courteously respond, "After you, gentlemen."

The thieves who held up the train carrying Iowa's delegates to the democratic convention delayed their activities too long. They should have operated while the representatives of "big business" were on their way to Chicago.

We wish to inform visitors to this city, and people passing through it in automobiles, that Lowell is really a much nicer place than the wretched condition of some of its streets would indicate.

Is there any connection between the fact that the "barefoot season" is here and the temporary shut down of some of Lowell's hosiery mills?

The proposition to resume sugar rationing has been dropped and instead an effort is being made to secure sugar enough for everybody. Watch how it works.

That promised relief in the coal shortage did not reach New England despite the assurances of Washington.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Recently on every Sunday morning, a number of great motor trucks loaded with people have passed through Lowell en route to Lakeview or Long Pond. Down Cambridge way, there are a great many people who have spent their vacations in past years at Long Pond; and they still prefer it and Lakeview to the beach. Most people like to get away from the places that lie at their doors. A change of scene and cool shade with perhaps an opportunity to do a little fishing are the chief attractions sought by these parties. Yesterday one party bound for Lakeview had three barges carrying about 150 people.

At Salisbury beach yesterday, two airplanes were making short trips from the beach, each carrying one passenger at a time for a dollar per minute. They were kept busy as the applicants for air flights were numerous, despite the expense. In the afternoon one machine was damaged by taking a nose spin into the sand in an effort to avoid hitting a woman who ran in front of it as the machine landed. The aviator put on power enough to lift the machine over the woman's head and lest the tail end should hit her he turned the tail upward and the plane dug into the sand breaking the propellers and damaging the engine.

The Man About Town recently visited a friend in Boston who has a unique hobby. He is a printer who has been connected with one of the Boston newspapers for more than 30 years. A few years ago he found that his work was getting on his nerves and that he was falling physically. Instead of consulting a doctor he became his own physician and doped out a remedy for himself. He concluded that the best medicine for him would be more exercise in the open air. About that time a catalogue of rose bushes reached him and he ordered a few of the plants. He has been ordering them ever since from every quarter of the globe where roses grow. These he grows in his back yard that has an area of only about 500 or 700 square feet. Therein, however, are hundreds of bushes and no two of them produce flowers that are exactly alike. Every bush is treated by the owner as an individual friend, to be carefully guarded and protected, and each bush has a separate and interesting story to tell him regarding the source from whence it came and its habits and ways of growth. Not a single blossom is allowed to mature that is not perfect. Not a flower is ever sold. The choicest roses go to friends and the sick in hospitals. Just now the owner of the roses is the most popular man in the neighborhood among young women. No, we are not going to give his name and address for some of Lowell's misses might be seeking his acquaintance.

It is always a pleasure to record the success of a Lowell young man or woman in any undertaking or vocation he or she may be pursuing. The innate ability, tact and discretion which Miss May E. Lowney is showing in her position as assistant director of vocational training for the industrial accident board in this commonwealth is certainly pleasing and gratifying to her friends here in her home city. Naturally modest and unassuming, Miss Lowney has been the recipient of so many encomiums from admirers throughout the state that it is fitting she should receive a word of praise from home. A hard worker, a tireless enthusiast in the labor she so splendidly handles and a deep student of the subject, it is little wonder that she has achieved success. Miss Lowney's contribution to the Catholic Charities Review, an excerpt of which was published in The Sun recently, shows not only a clear insight into the work, but brings out several phases of this vocational training which it is advantageous to the public to know. Miss Lowney told me recently that she was apprehensive lest some might view these matters of vocational training rather ultra-consciously. There are so many shining examples of the good that comes should be genuine and inspiring enthusiasm for it everywhere. A talk with Miss Lowney will convince one that she has the ability to arouse this enthusiasm and the industrial accident board is surely fortunate in having in such an important position a tactful, capable young woman, who, in the parlance of the day, is "very much on the job."

WAS FOUND DEAD

Body of Unknown Man Found Near Roadside

The body of a man believed to be a resident of Framingham, but whose identity has not yet been established, was found in the grass along the road-side in Livingston avenue, yesterday forenoon, and a short distance away was found a bottle labeled "Carbolic acid-poison." Medical Examiner T. B. Smith ordered the body removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker George W. Healey in Branch street, where it was found that the mouth and lips of the dead man showed red burns, indicating that in all probability, death was due to poisoning.

The man was about 25 years of age, complexion dark, dark brown hair, slight of build, sound teeth. He wore blue trousers with orange stripes, black belt, dark brown shoes and heavy underwear. Near the body was found a straw hat which bore the firm name of "Garpenker," Framingham, and the initials "R. J. D." In the trousers were found a watchman's knife and hook and a New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad ticket from Lowell to Framingham dated June 24.

The wettest place on earth is Cherrapunjee, in southwestern Assam, rainfall there reaching 305 inches in 1881.

SEEN AND HEARD

And now the sun never sets on British oil.

Maybe the price of sugar is made high by the good, rich soil they are putting in it now.

One shouldn't speak of election returns to Mexico. Down there an official never returns.

The profiteer finds that blaming high prices on the cost of labor works just as well as blaming it on the war.

If a bathing suit is comfortable on the beach, will some one please explain why the ladies don't wear them down town.

The tumult and the shouting dies; the captains and the kings depart. Still the Balkan war dog lies, waiting to make another start.

How fine it would be to find some remote summer resort where those who sell things to eat haven't learned to charge a dollar for a fried egg.

The Coral Necklace

A man purchased some red flannel shirts guaranteed not to shrink. He reminded the salesman forcibly of the guarantee some weeks later.

"Have you had any difficulty with them?" the latter asked.

"No," replied the customer, "only the other morning when I was dressing my wife said to me, 'John, when did you buy that coral necklace?'"

Didn't Know "Rusky"

At an engineering school a pupil began to whistle at his work so shrilly as to rise above the turmoil of the lather and mills. "Stop that noise," said the instructor.

"But Ruskin praises the man who whistles at his work," was the reply.

"Don't quote your low-down music hall comedians to me," was the stern reply.

Incapable

"O, poet!" I pleaded, "O master of art! Sing me a song for my wounded heart; O, sing me your sweetest once again." But the poet put in, as he nibbled his pen: "The cost of sugar is past all bounds; I am buying it now in quarter-pounds!"

"O, anachorite father! O, cellmate saint! O, hermit, free of all earthly taint! O, grant me part of your soul's peace now!"

But the hermit replied, as he beat his brow: "Now who shall say how to find relief From the wages of sin and the price of beef?"

"O, lover, arouse you! tis spring! tis spring! Let the wine in your arteries dance Let us cast off care, with the world well lost!" But the lover replied, in a voice of frost: "Cupid and Psyche have mournful news; Their banes are banned by the price of shoes."

"O, modern Maecenas, I seek your shrine! Your home is a palace almost divine; O, here is a haven of solace and rest." But Maecenas remarked, with his chin in his chest: "You better stick round till we get you a bile, But say, ain't the price of potatoes a high price?"

—EDMUND VANCE COOKE.

By O. B. Joyful

Picnics were first used by the Sandwich Islanders. The carefree Sandwichmen picnicked Capt. Cook's party. That broke up the first Cook's tour. It almost ended in cookery, so to speak. Those who were not cooked or sandwiched returned and established picnicking in Europe. Contrary to general belief Attila the Hun, was not the first picnicker. Our office boy favors picnics.

"I always go to two," said he, "Milkman's and Orphans." "We knew he wasn't a milkman. They have hard faces." "Are you an orphan," asked us scornfully.

"No; but I have three cousins who are," replied he smilingly. No picnic is complete without a goat. Cows may be substituted if no goats are handy. The goat enters in the second act. (The act where Kitty finds the snake and thinks it pit her) and is driven away with sticks, also screams, also shrieks, also brinks. N. B.—The goat always consumes the very cake that Maw wanted Aunt Mary to try before giving her the receipt. (One egg, y' know.) A learned jurist has said that marriages which resulted from picnic engagements are usually lasting. This is because if the loving couple are able to remain in each other's company an entire day under picnic conditions, without cracking under the strain, neither will ever have courage enough to apply for divorce. Picnics are always held near water in order that Willie may scare Maw by attempting to drown. In properly ordered picnics Maw always fills the oxford she was intending to give to the Ladies Aid rummage sale with black muck trying to rescue Willie who doesn't want to be rescued. We will draw the asbestos curtain on the concluding scenes. Also the Epilogue wherein William receives what he has been promised all day. He receives it, you know, because he ate the ice cream that remained in the bottom of the freezer and was destined for Maw's lunch pail. In conclusion—picnics are a national habit, sometimes thought to be a disease. Like the w. k. measles, they are most prevalent in the young, but so harmless with the mature. They are a summer disease.

TOUCH OF SILVER

FOR SUMMER FROCK

New York's Fashion Authority
NEW YORK, June 25.—A touch of silver lace, a bit of silver embroidery, a length or two of silver ribbon is an ideal addition to a summer frock, for the very tone of silver suggests coolness, as red suggests warmth.

So, then, here is a hint worth following in this dance frock which was recently seen on the Capitol stage. Its material is soft, satin-surfaced silk with its shimmer that makes you think of the sea when the day is dull, and

Havana Rocked by Bomb Explosions

HAVANA, Cuba, June 28.—Downtown Havana was shaken shortly before midnight last night by the explosion of two bombs which had been placed in apartments in the walls of the second precinct police station by parties not yet apprehended. One man was injured by flying debris. A few minutes later another and heavier bomb exploded in front of a pawn shop smashing in the window and throwing articles in all directions. Police officials found in the wall of the police station another bomb which had failed to explode.

MAPLE TREE FLATS

Maple-tree flats doesn't look like much of a place. With your earth eyes and my earth eyes, we should only see a tall, graceful tree with many branches and thick green leaves, standing near to the edge of a wood. And all the holes and lumpy places wouldn't be a thing to us but holes and lumps, and all the bits of shaggy bark land-of-dear-knows-where, and when ones passes he has no idea how many pairs of eyes are staring at him, and the remarks passed on his appearance. So when Mr. Tingaling arrived to collect his rents, bringing Nancy and Nick along to carry the money, about a baker's dozen pairs of eyes were peeping at them—no, more than that; hanging loose would just be bits of bark. It takes fairy eyes, and very special gifts such as the twins had, to see the hinges and locks and doorbells, and the face curtains at the windows, for all the holes and slits and lumps and hangy-things mean something more than they appear to be at first. In fact, the old sugar maple is the finest, biggest apartment house in the

WHEN MR. TINGALING ARRIVED TO COLLECT HIS RENTS, A BAKER'S DOZEN PAIRS OF EYES WERE PEEPING AT HIM.

about a baker's dozen of lady fingers which are always two cakes instead of one by the time you get the bag home. And when everybody saw the landlord coming with his big book and his sharp lead pencil stuck behind his ear, and Nick carrying a large empty pocketbook, there was a hurrying and scurrying, I tell you, and such squeakings and pipping, and chattering, it sounded like a jazz band.

But there was one pair of eyes that didn't peep, and one voice that didn't chatter, for Mr. Oscar Owl in his nightcap and night-shirt was sound asleep in his bedroom! He hadn't heard a thing.

LEAGUE PLANK FRAMED WET AND DRY PLANKS

BY SEN. WALSH

(SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has prepared a foreign relations plank which he will ask the committee on resolutions to adopt.

"I believe that it is the duty of the democracy of the nation to declare themselves on our foreign relations and I am prepared to fight for the adoption of this plank or one that is substantially along the same lines," said Senator Walsh. His plank says: "The democratic party favors a League of Nations to promote and maintain international peace and amity and will do all things within its power to establish such a league. "We denounce any movement of any political party seeking to make the ratification of the Versailles treaty a political issue in the coming election. The drafting and ratification of international agreements and treaties should never be subjected to partisan or political consideration.

Approves Wilson's Ideals
"We approve the ideals and principles which President Wilson espoused in the name of the American people and his splendid efforts under most trying and difficult circumstances to establish a league to promote international justice and peace.

"The democratic party, meeting for the first time since the presentation to the American people of the issues growing out of the Versailles treaty and League of Nations covenant further declares that its candidates, if elected, shall support the following principles as fundamentally necessary to secure the approval and support of the American government to any treaty or covenant for a league of nations, and that it will support no international contract or arrangement which obligates the United States to:

- Walsh's Proposed Principles
- (1)—Engage in wars waged by foreign powers; or to submit to a foreign tribunal questions of its vital interests.
 - (2)—Which limits or impairs the right of the United States to arm for the national defense when it is menaced by foreign powers or when the country or its armed forces have been attacked.
 - (3)—Which gives to any foreign state or empire a vote in the league in the aggregate greater than that of the United States.
 - (4)—Which endangers or impairs the Monroe Doctrine, or which does not leave the United States, upon proper notice, free to withdraw from the league on its own terms.
- "Reiterating our faith in the doctrine that governments derive their power from the consent of the governed, the democratic party declares that it will not consent to any league which obligates the United States to assist in the subjugation of any people or to aid in preventing any people from seeking to gain their liberty and establish a government of their own free choice."

Continued
Senator Walsh for the resolutions committee and also selected him to head the delegation. The sixth District of Columbia delegates, including Secretary Colby, adopted a resolution pledging their support to Atty. Gen. Palmer for president. Secretary Colby was selected as a member of the resolutions committee. Virginia delegates named Carter Glass as member of the resolutions committee. Ratifying the instructions given them by the state committee, the delegates resolved to cast a solid vote on the first ballot at least for Senator Glass as presidential nominee, but took no binding action as to further votes.

No caucus was held by Wisconsin delegates, but members of the party said McAdoo sentiment predominated.

Profiteering Plank

Profiteering proposed by William J. Bryan. It follows:
"The democratic party pledges the nation to rid it of the profiteer and to close the door against the return. It will endeavor to eliminate all unnecessary middlemen to the encouragement of organizations among producers that will bring those who sell and those who use together. It will enact and enforce laws that will effectively prevent excessive charges by such middlemen as are necessary. To this end it will demand legislation subjecting to the penalties of criminal law all corporate officers and employees who give or carry instructions that result in extortion; it will make it unlawful for anyone engaged in interstate commerce to make the sale of one article dependent upon the purchase of another article and it will require such corporations to disclose to customers the difference between costs and selling price or limit the profit that can be legally charged as the rate of interest is now limited. It will also endeavor to create in the several state commissions with ample powers as those of the federal trade commission and to enact laws authorizing each local community to create as needed, similar commissions for the investigation of local charges of profiteering."

The clause to punish profiteering by corporation officers Mr. Bryan said, is designed to meet court decisions preventing prison sentence being imposed upon corporation officers.

The pope's personal expenses average little more than $500 a year.

Cuba's population now is 2,855,553. The White House was modeled after the palace of the Duke of Leinster.

Drastic Anti-Liquor Plank by Bryan — Burleson Leads "Liberal" Forces

(SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Both wets and dries yesterday launched their planks on the democratic seas of alcoholic differences, with a stormy passage promised to the final harbor of the convention floor.

For the dries William J. Bryan made public his proposed plank, a sweeping declaration for enforcement of the Volstead law without increase in alcoholic content of the beverages.

From the wet came alternative planks drafted by Postmaster General Burleson. One declares for "individual liberty" and modification of the Volstead law to remove its "drastic and unreasonable features," and the alternative for amendment permitting beverages "in fact not intoxicating."

"The plank is to be presented to the resolutions committee upon its organization, and, regardless of the outcome there, it is generally expected that the liquor fight will reach the convention floor."

Both Factions Hard at Work

With both "wet" and "dry" factions working hard through the Sabbath, there also was a strong movement to prevent any mention of the liquor question in the platform, a movement backed by many powerful leaders.

The Bryan prohibition plank follows: "We heartily congratulate the democratic party on its splendid leadership in the submission and ratification of the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution and we pledge the party to the effective enforcement of the Volstead law, honestly and in good faith, without any increase in the alcoholic content of permitted beverages and without any weakening of any other of its provisions."

"I guess there is no doubt about what that means," said Mr. Bryan. "We will give every delegate a chance to go on record for or against it. I expect to have it adopted by the resolutions committee."

Mr. Burleson, after reading the Bryan plank, gave out his proposals, declaring, however, that he had drafted them by himself and spoke only for himself, and was not to be regarded as the leader of the forces favoring modification of the present laws.

The proposed plank, which Mr. Burleson said he believed would meet the sentiment of the "great majority of the American people," reads: "The open saloon has been generally condemned by the American people as a menace to society and the well being of the people and its restoration should not be tolerated. The validity of the 18th amendment to the constitution having been sustained by the supreme court, any laws enacted under its authority must be strictly enforced."

"However, the democratic party pledges its utmost endeavor to prevent this new grant of federal power from being exercised in such manner as to become oppressive or deprive the people of that individual liberty which it was the purpose of the union of states to guarantee and preserve through all time. The Volstead act, vetoed by a democratic president and passed over his veto by a republican congress, is an extreme exercise of the powers granted by the 18th amendment, and it should be to amended in strict conformity with the spirit and purpose of the constitution as to eliminate therefrom its drastic and unreasonable features. We favor an amendment to the federal constitution prohibiting all amendments hereafter proposed thereto to be ratified or rejected by a referendum of the qualified voters of the several states of the Union."

Senate Flayed by Cummings

searched in vain for one constructive suggestion for the reformation of the conditions which it criticizes and deplores," he continued.

"The oppressed peoples of the earth will look to it in vain. It contains no message of hope for Ireland; no word of mercy for Armenia; and it conceals a sword for Mexico. It is the work of men concerned more with material things than with human rights. It contains no thought, no purpose which can give impulse or thrill to those who love liberty and hope to make the world a safer and happier place for the average man."

Peace and War Records

He declared that the peace time record of the democratic party from March, 1913, to the outbreak of the world war was to its credit "more effective, constructive and remedial legislation than the republican party had placed upon the statute books in a generation."

Praising the administration's course in the war, he said: "We fought a great war, for a great cause and we had a leadership that carried America to higher heights of honor and power and glory than she has ever known before in her entire history."

"Let no one misunderstand us. These great affairs were carried forward under the stimulus of American patriotism, supported by the courage and spirit of our people. All this is freely and gladly acknowledged, but surely and justly as come when, because of the calculated criticism and premature judgments of the opposition, we are entitled to call attention to the fact that all of these things were accomplished under the leadership of a great democrat and of a great democratic administration. If the republican leaders are not able to rejoice with us in this American triumph, they should have the grace to remain silent for it does not lie in the mouths of those who conducted the Spanish-American war to indulge in the luxury of criticism."

Cleanest War in History

Referring to congressional investigations by "smelling committees," he said that over 50 investigations have been made, over two million dollars wasted and "the result has been to prove that it was the cleanest war ever fought in the history of civilization."

"The republican party became an fixed in its incorrigible habit of conducting investigations that it finally turned to the fruitful task of investigating itself. They discovered fraud and graft and gross and inexcusable expenditures. The revelations disclose the fact that the meeting at Chicago was not a convention but an auction. The highest bidder, however, did not get the prize. The publicity which overtook the proceedings frustrated the initial purpose. The Chicago convention left the democratic party as the sole custodian of the honor of the country."

Peace achievements of the democratic party, he asserted, "freed the farmer from the deadening effects of usurious financial control. Labor was given its Magna Charta of liberty. Business and finance were released from the thrall of uncertainty and hazard."

Some of the Achievements

"The income tax law," he said, "relieved our law of the reproach of being unjustly burdensome to the poor. The extravagances and inequities of the tariff system were removed and a non-partisan tariff commission created. Pan-Americanism was encouraged and the bread thus cast upon the waters came back to us manifold. Alaska was opened to commerce and development. Dollar diplomacy was destroyed. A corrupt lobby was driven from the national capitol. An effective seaman's commission was created. Child labor legislation was enacted. The parcel post and the rural free delivery were developed. A good roads bill and a rural credits act were passed. A secretary of labor was given a seat in the cabinet of the president. Eight-hour laws were adopted. The Clayton amendment to the Sherman anti-trust act was passed, freeing American labor and taking it from the list of commodities. The Smith-Lever bill for the improvement of agricultural conditions was passed. A corrupt practices act was adopted. A well considered warehouse act was passed. Federal employment bureaus were created. Farm loan banks, postal savings banks and the federal reserve system were established."

"The federal reserve system, passed over the opposition of the leaders of the republican party, enabled America to withstand the strain of war without shock or panic and ultimately made our country the greatest creditor nation of the world."

Turning to the record of the republican congress since 1915, Mr. Cummings said it was "barren of achievement, shameless in waste of time and money and without parallel for its ineptitudes, failures and repudiations."

President Wilson's two appeals before congress for legislation dealing with profiteering, reduction of taxes, aid for soldiers and laws to improve relations of capital and labor were ignored, he declared, and "after a year of sterile debate our country has neither peace nor reconstruction."

Wilson "Crucified" by G.O.P.

He dwelt particularly on attacks made upon the president. Malice followed him to the peace table, he said, and widespread propaganda made it imperative when he returned from Paris to "make a struggle for that which had been won at incalculable cost. This meant wreck of health, sickness for months on a bed of pain; and worse, the sickness of heart which comes from the knowledge that political adversaries are savagely destroying not merely the work of men's hands, but the world's hope of settled peace. This was the affliction—this the crucifixion."

Mr. Cummings continued that in one sense "it is quite immaterial what people say about the president. Nothing we can say can add or detract from the fame that will flow down the unending channels of history."

He belied the republican and progressive platforms of 1916 as part of the record placing this country in favor of the League of Nations.

"The republican platform contains a vague promise to establish another or a different form of association," he said. "There is no mental dishonesty more transparent than that which expresses fealty to a League of Nations while opposing the only league that exists or is ever apt to exist."

Mexico, Russia, Turkey, U. S. Not In

"What nations stand outside? Revolutionary Mexico, Bolshevik Russia, unrepentant Turkey and—the United States."

"It is not yet too late. Let us stand with the forces of civilization. The choice is plain. It is between the democratic party's support of the League of Nations, with its program of peace, disarmament and world fraternity, and the republican party's platform of repudiation, provincialism, militarism and world chaos."

It is not reservations that the president stands against, said Mr. Cummings, but nullification. He told how President Wilson had published the tentative text of the league covenant widely in 1913, asking for criticism and receiving suggestions from Taft, Hughes and others that were "actually incorporated into the revised draft of the league."

Senator Lodge, he said, refused to offer constructive amendments at any time. "So intolerant was his attitude that he would not even consider a compromise proposed by former President Taft of his own party and which was assured of support of 40 democratic senators. Senator Lodge knew that he controlled the senate and that in his own time and way he would destroy the treaty."

"This is the world story of its defeat," said Cummings, after reviewing the senate's action in the matter. "No blacker crime against civilization has ever soiled the pages of our history. The last chapter was written at Chicago."

Re-establish Fruits of Victory

"Let the true purpose of our party be clearly understood," he said in concluding his address. "We stand squarely for the same ideals of peace as those for which the war was fought. We support without flinching the only feasible plan for peace and justice. We will not submit to the repudiation of the peace treaty or to any process by which it is whittled down to the vanishing point. We decline to compromise our principles or pawn our immortal souls for selfish purposes. We do not turn our backs upon the history of the last three years. We seek no avenue of retreat. We insist that

elder politicians in their pre-convention conference.

Keynote by Cummings a Feature

The keynote speech by Homer S. Cummings as temporary chairman, was the principal feature of the day's program. Later in the day, the newly selected convention committees were as they began their task of writing the platform, hearing appeals from contests over delegates' seats and making up the convention rules and a slate of permanent convention officers.

The subject of keenest interest to the delegates manifestly was the impending prohibition fight, but talk of candidates was gaining more and more attention as the rival managers got down to cases with the big body of uninstructed and unpledged delegates.

Says McAdoo Would Accept

The latest turn of the McAdoo boom furnished a new angle to the convention preliminaries, but its precise effect on the relative situation of the candidates was not clear. Announcement that the secretary of the treasury, despite his declaration that he did not want the nomination, would be willing to accept it, was variously accepted by the several elements in the fight.

By some it was declared the development meant that McAdoo, whose supporters hitherto had planned to keep him in the background for several ballots, now would be an active contender from the start and that it consequently the convention, like that of the republicans at Chicago, would have a big three running close together on the opening roll call. The possibility of such a development brought renewed claims of consistent support from the supporters of Palmer and Cox and set the dark horses champing impatiently as they recalled what happened to the big three at Chicago. The Palmer and Cox managers sought to discount the apparent significance of the McAdoo announcement which was made late last night, by National Committeeman Love of Texas, without saying whether he had any direct authorization from McAdoo. It was apparent, however, that many of the McAdoo workers who have been canvassing for votes without much organization or system, accepted the statement of Mr. Love as its face value. Among the best informed politicians, the general opinion was that it still was too early to forecast definitely what would happen.

Palmer and Cox Active

They suggested that the Love statement only put the technical situation back where it was when Mr. McAdoo announced recently that he did not care to be considered a candidate. At that time, both Attorney General Palmer and Governor Cox were active candidates and their supporters were claiming victory.

In the pre-convention scramble for delegates, many of those who had been McAdoo supporters promised to vote for other candidates, but the McAdoo leaders declared today that practically every one of these could be brought back into the fold.

Meredith for Second Place

There was frequent mention of Secretary Meredith of the agriculture department as a possible running mate for Mr. McAdoo. Mr. Meredith's presidential campaign headquarters were closed Saturday when he announced he was in no sense a candidate. Discussion of candidates manifestly still was subordinate in the minds of many of the delegates to the prohibition issue and they regarded the inevitable preliminaries of the opening session with impatience as they waited for the time when the differences of the wets and dries could be thrashed out. It seemed a foregone conclusion that the question would be settled only after a stubborn fight on the floor, bringing into play the best oratorical and strategical fireworks of a typical democratic convention. The League of

CONVENTION OPENED

BY J. BRUCE KREMER

(SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—J. Bruce Kremer, vice chairman of the democratic national committee in opening the convention today spoke as follows: My Fellow Democrats:

Led through a labyrinth of devious political pathways, lost in the mazes of political trickery, following the Pied Pipers of republicanism, the Chicago convention emerged upon the well-paved roadway of standpatism.

That heterogeneous mass promulgated a remarkable document—remarkable in the fact that it is a masterly exemplification of the art of evasion. Not content with the direct insult to the intelligence of the progressive elements wrongly placed in their ranks, they once more surrendered the control of their party to the old forces of reaction and nominated a leader of that dynasty of dollars, against whose influence the common people rebelled until the great movement of progressivism drove it from power and installed in its stead a party truly representative of the people.

In marked contrast to the gathering of the opposition, we have met today to deal with living issues and to advise the people of America and of the world of democracy's stand upon the questions of the hour. It is with justifiable confidence that we approach the important work of presenting a platform and naming a candidate, for we offer to America an assurance based on achievement. We present a pledge founded on performance.

The republican party would turn backward, un mindful of the hopes and aspirations of forward-looking men and women, and would have us reverts to power reactionary forces which could only result in ruin and disaster, but we will continue to keep our path to the front and will hold to the path that during eight glorious years has led America to prosperity, peace and world leadership.

Our opponents speak to the people in the language of yesterday. They see only through the lenses of reaction. Through years of retrogression their party has now reached the decadent stage. The Chicago platform stamps it as a party of destruction. Its declaration of principles condemns but suggests no remedy either for real or fancied ills. It is out of tune with free people everywhere; it is out of harmony with the world's desire; it no longer, as in the days of its rebirth, stands as a giant championing the cause of freedom, but dwarfed by the cause of principle, it has developed into a vicious, crabbed old scold.

America will not look for leadership in that party; America will not tolerate the leadership of that party. Never more than now, does our country look to democracy to save it from the course of national degradation prescribed by republicanism, or to save it from abject humiliation before the nations of the earth.

Our party is almost as old as the nation itself. It was created when the forces of popular government assumed for the first time in the world's history the direct conduct of a nation. It has progressed in thought and our nation progressed in growth and attainment. It has kept pace with the time and has measured the tread of the advancing host of liberal government.

Our party has never been an evasive party. It was not evasion that made Thomas Jefferson the patron saint of democratic government; it was not evasion that made Andrew Jackson the personification of honesty and fearlessness; it was not evasion that made the democratic party of today the champion of the world's hopes and neither will it be evasion that will make the nominee of this convention the president of the United States.

Our party will present policies in a direct and constructive way; the republican platform is but an ingenious device meant to conceal irreconcilable differences.

In delivering our message to the American people our party will raise its anchor upon the shores of honesty and steer unflinchingly through the straits of courage.

With civilization's existence jeopardized in the recent inferno of world chaos, America reached but its hand to stay destructive forces. We placed her once more in her exalted position and raised again the fallen torch whence radiates the light that tramples British hearts and softens human souls. The world is waiting to hear the decision of the American electorate upon the covenant of the League of Nations; a war-worn world implores America to take the lead in this great movement, and humanity's voice cries out imperiously to our great nation.

Our country did not falter in its duty to silence the guns of war; our party will not falter in its duty to perpetuate peace.

Service Men

URGENT BONUS

(SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Service men among convention delegates today perfected plans for obtaining the endorsement of the democratic party for bonus legislation. It was decided to adopt the American Legion's "four way" plan of rewarding veterans of the late war, by extending paid up insurance, rural or urban home aid, vocational education or flat cash compensation.

Playing cards were invented about the year 1300 to amuse Charles VI, King of France.

BUGLE CALL REPLACES GAVEL AT CONVENTION

(SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—An innovation planned for the opening of the democratic national convention today was the silencing of the great gathering by a bugle call instead of the usual sounding of the gavel.

As the bugler's notes came to an end, the buzz of the conversation on the floor ceased, a detachment of marines standing in front of the platform were to raise the national colors and present arms while the land, high up behind the chairman, played the Star Spangled Banner. The formal call to order by Vice Chairman J. Bruce Kremer, was to follow.

The arrangement was made by Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

BABY BOY LEFT ON STEPS OF PLEASANT STREET HOUSE AWAITING IDENTIFICATION

A baby boy, about four or five weeks old, was found on the steps of the home of Mrs. Mary Kennedy, 103 Pleasant street, about 10:30 o'clock Saturday night by John McGraw, who lives in the same house. It was taken to the Chestnut Street hospital by Lieut. Ryan who is now awaiting identification. The cries of the infant attracted Mr. McGraw who notified the police. There were no marks on the administration organization program baby's clothing by which to identify it.

GOV. COOLIDGE HONORED

Principal Speaker at University of Vermont Commencement Exercises

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 28.—The American people were urged to accept the larger responsibility of a world of greater economic and political freedom and to employ their moral force in solving the problems of the future, in an address by Gov. Coolidge of Massachusetts, republican candidate for the vice presidency, at the commencement of the University of Vermont today. The degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon him.

"The conflicts of the past six years," he said, "have strengthened the determination of all America's people now as in the past to resist all aggression and support and defend her political institutions with whatever power as may be necessary for the preservation and maintenance of the larger liberties they bestow upon all her citizens."

"The unalterable inclination of the individual to preserve his heritage of larger liberty while tending to stabilize civic conditions has tended to change economic conditions. There has been a creation of new wealth and a vast redistribution of wealth as yet not fully realized and the effect of which has not yet been fully assessed. This readjustment has not been accomplished without strain, inconvenience and some suffering the end of which is not yet."

"It is absolutely impossible for the public to evade to shift the burden of meeting the cost of war and paying the public debt. This is our part of the price of victory. This has been and still is in some cases a range of artificially high prices which has not been caused by but has resulted in profiteering. There is but one sure remedy for this and that is increase of production. This is always the result of a long process and its application requires patience and forbearance."

"Having in mind solely the public welfare there is need of a larger revision of the benefits conferred by the collection of investment of capital not to the owner of capital but to the user of its products. The accumulation and investment of capital is the means of advance and comfort in modern civilization and whatever arrests, discourages, or prevents it turns toward barbarism. Capital and brains, investment and enterprise are not the enemies and masters of the wage earner but his friends and servants."

"We have been preaching and engaging in a great crusade. Its purpose has been to destroy despotism and preserve freedom. There has been a new birth of freedom. There has been a new expression to the rights of individuals, a new realization of its worth of man. All of this has set a standard of value on human service because it has given a new value to man. There has been a vast forward movement, the extent of which has not yet been fully appreciated."

"Greater liberty does not mean less responsibility. It means more responsibility. If America is to lead, her people must be true to her ancient ideals. The world has rejected a leadership sought to be imposed by force. The day of Washington and Lincoln has come. Leadership will henceforth not be by force but by service. No selfish interest whatever its source will long be allowed to interfere with progress."

"The American people desire progress and when they come, as come they must, to a comprehension that all kinds of selfishness and tyranny interfere with it they will discard their advocates as they discarded the leadership of tyranny, nullification and secession. Whether we seize the opportunity to lead in a great advance depends solely on ourselves. We have the resources, the power, the material force. The only question is the moral force. What leadership shall we follow? We have come through adversity. Can we bear prosperity?"

The university graduated a class of 125 and conferred honorary degrees on the following in addition to Governor Coolidge:

- Doctor of laws—Ralph Aldace Stewart of Boston and Edward Gleason Spaulding, president of philosophy, at Princeton.
- Doctor of divinity—Rev. Henry Jennings Kilburn and Rev. Isaac Chipman Smart of Burlington.
- Doctor of letters—Bert Hodge Hill, head of the American Classical school at Athens.
- Doctor of engineering—Charles Ezra Scribner of New York.

MAINE'S CENTENARY

PORTLAND, Me., June 28.—A general salute of 100 guns, the ringing of bells and blowing of whistles early today officially marked the opening of Maine's centenary celebration. Designated as "Music Festival day," it was given over to a program of musical attractions. The consolidated bands of the state, artists and chorus members of the centennial festival aided Prof. William R. Chapman, founder and director of the annual Maine music festival, marched down Congress street under an evergreen arch of welcome erected at Longfellow square, to city hall. There the Maine Centennial march, written by Prof. Chapman, was sung.

More than 1000 school children were included in the centennial festival chorus, which with the combined bands and other musical organization gave a concert in a field off Brighton avenue this afternoon. An address by Gov. Milliken was on the program. Daylight fireworks and another open air concert this evening conclude the day's events. Then ten days' celebration which continues through July 10, so far has had ideal June weather.

SEN. HARDING TAKES A REST

HARITAN, N. J., June 28.—Refreshed and invigorated by his first period of relaxation in several months, Senator Warren G. Harding, republican presidential nominee, had before him a quiet and uneventful program today at the country club of Senator Joseph L. Franklin, where he and Mrs. Harding are resting. The only event planned for the day was a golf match this forenoon with Senators Franklin, Hays, Hale of Maine, and Kellogg of Minnesota. Senators Hale and Kellogg accompanied the Harding party here from Washington. The nominee expected to leave late this afternoon for Washington. The senator spent Sunday in attending church with Mrs. Harding and his hosts in the forenoon and automobiling in the afternoon and resting quietly in the evening.

The brief vacation has done much to relieve the fatigue and strain of several months of legislative and pre-convention work and the nominee now is prepared to take up the campaign with renewed energy.

POPULATION OF STATE OF DELAWARE 223,003

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Delaware, first state whose total population has been announced in the 140th census, had a growth of 20,651 or 10.2 per cent in the last ten years, making its total population 223,003, the census bureau reported today.

In the ten years ending with 1920, Delaware increased 17,575, or 9.5 per cent, with a total population of 202,328. Newcastle county contains more than half the population of the state, had an increase of 25,051 or 20.3 per cent, while the other two counties showed decreases. Wilmington, largest city in the state, made up 22,757 of the increase in Newcastle county, and jumped into the cities of the 100,000 class with a total population of 110,133, an increase of 26.0 per cent, over 1910.

Ten years ago Delaware was 47th in population among the states with about 56,000 more people than Wyoming and 121,000 more than Nevada, the two states with the smallest populations. In area Delaware ranks next to the smallest state, Rhode Island, and in 1910 had 103 inhabitants to the square mile, ranking as ninth state in that respect.

Other returns given out today included: Oklahoma City, Okla., 31,259; increase 27,033, or 42.1 per cent. Walla Walla, Wn., 15,505, decrease 3361 or 10.9 per cent. Newcastle county, Delaware, including Wilmington, 118,239; increase 25,051 or 20.3 per cent.
